BERLIN RECALLS ENVOY TO U. S.

Japs Deny Violating 'Open Door' Policy

TOKYO SENDS REPLY TO U. S. ON PROTESTS

Restrictions on Americans Partially Lifted, Note Tells Washington.

WAR ENTERS 500TH DAY

Chinese Battle to Defend Last Strongholds While Interior Battle Rages.

TOKYO — Japan, replying to the United States protest against restrictions on foreign trade in China in favor of Japanese, denied today that she is violating the "open door" principle of the nine-power treaty.

The reply said that specific points in the American note and incidents complained of might be attributed to abnormal war conditions, and promised to restore normality as soon as possible.

Ban Partly Lifted.

The note said that Americans may return without restriction to interior points in China except "danger zones." (Most of the important part of the interior has been proclaimed "danger zones" by Japan).

Japan denied any fundamental difference in the treatment of Americans, stressing again that the war makes conditions abnormal.

The reply said control of foreign exchange by Japan is necessary because traders are profiting illegally from the disparity between the old Chinese currency and the new Chinese federal reserve notes issued by the new banking system set up by Japan in North China.

Foreign traders have refused to accept the notes, and Japan alleged that profiteers are smuggling them out and selling them at a discount against the old currency.

War In 500th Day.

Meanwhile the undeclared Chinese-Japanese war went into its 500th day with Chinese forces battling to defend their last strongholds as Japanese warplanes carried destruction to China's far borders.

From Changsha came scattered reports that Hunan, provincial capital, was being destroyed rapidly by fire, with heavy damage to American mission property. Persons with the institutions were said to be safe.

In Jail Here 10 Weeks, Man To Be Sent Back 'Home'

Sought by immigration authorities for 14 years before he was taken into custody here 10 weeks ago, George Grama, 55, a native of Rumania, was headed back to his home land today—by order of the federal government.

Grama, who lived in Mansfield for 10 years under the name of Philip Hubert, had eluded federal authorities since 1924 after he forfeited a $1,000 bond in New York state.

He was wanted there for violation of the Mann act, authorities said.

Immigration authorities from Youngstown took Grama to New York last night to deport him, Sheriff E. P. Long said. Grama, who had never become a citizen of the United States, has been held in the county jail without bond since Sept. 7.

GET RATE CUT

Morrow County Towns Benefit By Power Price Reduction.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The state utilities commission today authorized the Marion Reserve Power Co. to reduce slightly as of Nov. 1 its electric rates for service to public and parochial schools and libraries at Marion, Mt. Gilead, Caledonia, Green Camp, Magnetic Springs, Richwood, Ashley, Cardington and Edison.

SHIP CRIPPLED

Boston Trawler Wires For Help; Drifts Off Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, N. S. — (INS) — Disabled and drifting helplessly in heavy seas, the Boston trawler Patrick J. O'Hara was reported in a wireless message picked up here today to be in need of assistance. The craft's position was about 200 miles off Nova Scotia.

Called To Berlin

Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, above, German ambassador to the United States, was called home today and the recall order was immediately followed by reports that Nazi leaders failed to believe Dieckhoff's cabled reports to Berlin on the extent of resentment in America over the purge of Jews in Germany.

THEATER FILLED AS SCHOOL ENDS

Final Cooking Session at Ohio Attracts 1,600; Attendance for 4 Days Passes 5,000.

The rain this morning failed to keep women away from the final session of The News-Journal fall cooking school, so that the theater was filled to capacity, with approximately 1,600 in attendance.

Today's cooking lecture marked the close of the most successful ever sponsored by The News-Journal. Attendance was well over 5,000 for the four sessions.

Miss Ruth Chambers, who conducted the school and who appeared here for the second time this year as she had been in charge of the spring school, repeated her success of earlier in the year, with her naturalness, her stage poise and the excellence of her dishes and lectures.

Today's program was designed for company menus which centered around good meat dishes, such as crown roast of pork, Frenched leg of lamb, veal scallops, stuffed pork chops, lamb aspic, and a peach-sausage combination ideal for a company breakfast.

Two new recipes for company dessert were contained in the booklets given out today; one was for a luscious peppermint candy cake with pink candy icing, and the other for an icebox dessert of chocolate wafer crumbs, and ice cream mixed with ground chocolate chips and re-frozen.

CLEARS DRIVER

Marriott Finds Fatal Accident Was Unavoidable.

County Prosecutor G. W. Marriott today exonerated Hilbert Schrack, 19, of near Lucas, in the death of Caleb H. Jordan, 65, Monroe township farm hand, in a traffic accident near Lucas Wednesday night.

Mr. Jordan was killed by a car driven by young Schrack as the aged man walked along state route 603 near the farm where he worked.

The prosecutor questioned the youth, his father, Charles Schrack, and Harvey Chronister, a neighbor, before announcing his finding that the accident was unavoidable.

The youth said he was blinded by the lights of an approaching car and failed to see the man who was walking on the left side of the highway, facing Schrack's car.

Funeral services for Mr. Jordan will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Byerly Funeral home in Lucas with Rev. J. R. Duffy of Perrysville officiating. Burial will be in the Mt. Zion cemetery.

BLAZE SUBSIDES

Spectacular Four-Hour $200,000 Fire Hits Columbus Plant.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A spectacular fire that razed a one-story brick factory building in suburban Grandview was brought under control early today by firemen who battled the blaze for more than four hours.

Damage to the two concerns housed in the building was estimated at $60,000 each while total loss was expected to surpass the $200,000 mark.

NO T. B. FUNDS DUE TILL '40, LOAN SOUGHT

County Discovers Money From Levy Not Available for Year, Acts to Borrow.

PROVIDES $45,000 YEARLY

Commissioners Point Out Loan Necessary If T. B. Patients Are to Get Needed Care.

Learning that funds from a half-mill tax levy for the care of tuberculosis patients will not be available until early in 1940, county commissioners today planned to borrow against the anticipated revenue from the special levy to provide hospitalization for T. B. patients in 1939.

The half-mill levy on real estate, which was passed at the Nov. 8 election, will produce about $45,000 a year for five years, but the county must wait until February, 1940, to start collecting it, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said.

Expected Funds in '39.

"Commissioners were under the impression that we would start collecting the funds next year, but now we will be forced to borrow or greatly curtail activities in the health department," C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, asserted.

"The county budget provided only $10,000 for the care of tuberculosis patients this year, and there is little chance for any more than that in 1939," Mitchell added.

Costs $25,000 Annually.

Total cost of caring for the patients in hospitals and rest homes in this year is expected to reach $25,000, with additional appropriations and fund transfers providing the $15,000 above the appropriation.

The county auditor pointed out that the levy will be collected on the 1939 tax duplicate, but taxes for the year are not payable until 1940.

He said the levy would serve the purpose of a bond issue as collateral for loans to finance the health department until actual revenue from the levy is available.

A shortage of funds forced commissioners to order a number of T. B. patients returned home from hospitals outside the county during recent weeks.

Under the present set-up, the county must reimburse the state for the care of Richland county patients in sanitariums and rest homes in other sections of the state.

Commissioners have indicated a part of the revenue from the half-mill levy may be used to build a hospital in the county.

THOUSANDS PASS ATATURK'S BIER

11 Killed, Others Injured as Turks Crowd Into Palace.

ISTANBUL, Turkey — (INS) — Eleven persons were killed and many others were seriously injured today as huge crowds fought to pay homage to Kemal Aatatürk, the late president-dictator and founder of modern Turkey, whose body is lying in state at the Dolma Bagatache palace.

So great was the crush of humanity that, according to authorities, about 1,000 women and children were knocked unconscious as 100,000 mourners filed past Ataturk's bier during the night.

The struggle resulted from the anxiety of Turks to pay their final respects to Ataturk before his funeral.

Look What U. S. Gets

EVEN the strongest American critics of Adolf Hitler can find something to be thankful for in his regime. For as a result of it, some of the world's most talented persons have come to the United States. America can be thankful for such as these:

A SCIENTIST

Albert Einstein, called the world's most famous Jew, fled Germany in 1933 and was promptly given a life appointment at Princeton. The physicist, now 59, has opened new worlds to science. He has taken out U. S citizenship papers.

AN EDUCATOR

Eduard Benes lost the presidency of Czechoslovakia in the recent crisis, and went to England. Historian, diplomat and educator, he is one of the founders of the Czech republic. At 54, he's coming to the U. S. as professor at Chicago university.

A SINGER

Lotte Lehman, German-born Metropolitan opera star, waves U. S. citizenship papers. Her Austrian step-sons are non-Aryan, and Nazis recently seized her property near Vienna. She asserted: "It's difficult to believe there is a land in which I am 'undesirable.'"

A DIRECTOR

Max Reinhardt, for more than 30 years one of the great world figures in the theater, came to the United States two years ago. He gave Hollywood two spectacular stage productions and a movie, "A Midsummer Night's Dream." He is becoming a citizen.

Bromfields' Hunt for Farm Turns Into Tour of County

Novelist and Wife Explore Rural Roads and Byways, Agree It's Most 'Beautiful Country In World.'

Louis Bromfield, distinguished American novelist, who returned to Mansfield yesterday for a visit and to begin the search for his "dream farm" somewhere in his native Richland county, literally went on an exploratory spree which took him over most of the back roads and dirt wagon trails in the southeastern part of the county.

Bromfield, who has lived in France for 14 years and only recently came to Oberlin for a temporary home, came to Mansfield yesterday morning with his wife and George Hawkins, his secretary. It was the novelist's first visit here in more than eight years and the first time he had wandered over the county since leaving here 22 years ago. The trio remained over night, returning to Oberlin late this afternoon.

Plans Permanent Home.

Bromfield announced more than a month ago that he was returning to Richland county to establish a permanent home for his family on a farm somewhere near his home city of Mansfield.

The tour of farms started yesterday afternoon with the best of intentions to look only at farms that were for sale, with real estate men for guides, but in a short time the smart station wagon of the Bromfields had outdistanced the real estate men, and the novelist and his party were off to follow the lure of country roads that seem to go no place in particular.

GOOD GRID DAY

Fine Football Weather in Store for Saturday, Forecast.

Encouraging words for football fans came from the weather bureau today, which predicts a sharp change in temperature tonight and a clear, snappy "swell day for football" tomorrow, the last day of the 1938 season for most major teams.

A warm rain last night and this morning followed yesterday's temperature of 61, but weather bureau officials said that colder weather was moving in from the plain states and that the thermometer tonight would drop to about freezing point. Neither rain nor snow are in the cards for tomorrow, unless there should be light snow flurries across the northern sections of the state.

There was a rainfall of 1.07 last night with some rumblings of thunder. The temperature hovered around 58 this noon.

70 JEWS SLAIN

London Hears Executions Follow Shooting of Von Rath.

MANCHESTER — (INS) — The Manchester Guardian in a London dispatch today declared that it has been "confirmed" that 70 Jews were executed at the concentration camp in Buchenwald, Germany, on Nov. 8 before the death of Ernst Von Rath.

Other Jews were executed by firing squads after Von Rath's death from wounds suffered at the hand of a Polish Jew, the Guardian asserted.

OHIO AUDITOR NAMED

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — The office of State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson announced today that he had been elected secretary of the National State Auditors' and State Treasurers' association at its annual convention in progress at Biloxi, Miss.

Tiny Factory of '88 Thrived, Ohio Brass 50 Years Old Today

Fifty years ago today Mansfield's newest industry had settled into its home at 207 North Main street and had started on the second month of its existence. A few persons had a great deal of faith in it, while the majority of Mansfielders knew little of it and passed it over as a little business that might or might not survive.

But it did survive and this year the Ohio Brass company is observing its 50th anniversary. There is no celebration because the company's founder, Frank B. Black, died less than a year ago.

From the little company that manufactured brass valves for plumbing and brass fixtures for harness, the company has grown into one of world-wide representation and sales, with agents in 24 foreign nations in Europe, Asia, South America and Africa.

On Oct. 17, 1888 Frank Black established his small company. One of those who had great faith in him was the late Reid Carpenter, who gave financial aid as well as legal advise.

Five years after the company had started, destiny brought to Mansfield a man who was to play

'PASS HAT' TO GET $700 FOR 2-WAY RADIO

Bates Launches Campaign to Raise Funds Council Said It Couldn't Provide.

CONTACT FACTORY HEADS

Merchants Also to Be Asked to 'Kick In' So Police Can Buy New Equipment.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates today had launched a "pass the hat" campaign to raise $700 for the purchase of two-way radio equipment for the police department.

Assisted by a Mansfield business man whose name was withheld, Bates today started the solicitation of Mansfield business and industrial firms. He said the city's banking institutions already had been contacted and that they had expressed their willingness to cooperate. One of the officers of one of the institutions launched the campaign with a $5 contribution.

Call On Executives.

Bates said that his "silent partner" was to contact several industrial executives within the next few days and that he had hopes of raising the funds among this group. However, merchants probably will be solicited, too, he added.

Bates' plea for the funds to purchase the equipment follows the failure of council's finance committee to act on an appropriation which the chief had asked early this month.

Would Equip 4 Cruisers.

The equipment, four ultra high frequency transmitters for the four police cruisers and a station receiver which would supplement the present receiving equipment which was purchased four years ago through funds raised in a similar campaign, have been quoted at $700. This price stands only until Jan. 1, the chief said.

"For this reason it was necessary to raise the money before that time if the department hopes to take advantage of the low offer," Bates said.

The present radio equipment consists of a station transmitter and receivers in the cruisers.

Bates announced that a strict accounting of the funds would be kept and that the records in his office would be open to the public.

SUBMIT PLANS

Officials Confer in Columbus on Overpass Proposal.

A delegation of city and county officials headed by Mayor Claude M. Hunter were in Columbus today to seek the construction of an overpass at the West Fourth street crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Those accompanying the mayor, who will present drawings of the proposed span to state highway department officials, were Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, WPA-City Engineer Glenn Weller, Boyd Wierman, Richland county resident engineer for the state highway department, and County Commissioner C. L. Mitchell.

The group was to meet F. R. Hopley of Bucyrus, state counsel for the Lincoln Highway association, in the capial. Hopley was to join in asking state officials for the funds for the overpass which he said have been allocated to the state from the federal government as part of the federal grade separation program.

WOUNDED BY DOG

Ohio Hunter Loses Leg When Canine Sets Off Gun.

WARREN — (U.P.) — John Hake, 51, of near Niles, who was shot by his own dog in a hunting accident, underwent an operation for amputation of his right leg today.

The dog, responding to a call from his master, stepped on the trigger of a gun lying on the ground. A charge from the shotgun splintered Hake's leg.

DIECKHOFF TOLD TO RETURN HOME; NAZIS 'PUZZLED'

Interpret Order As Meaning Germany Fails To Believe Reports of U. S. Resentment On Jewish Violence; Action Comes As Surprise.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Germany today called home her ambassador to Washington for a report on "the queer attitude" of President Roosevelt and other American leaders toward the wave of violence and restrictive measures against Jews in Nazi Germany.

The summons to Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff was sent just four days after announcement that U. S. Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson had been ordered home by President Roosevelt for report and consultation.

The order for Dieckhoff to return came as a surprise even to many foreign office functionaries. It was interpreted as meaning that Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and other members of the cabinet had found it difficult to believe Dieckhoff's cabled reports concerning American reaction to Germany's anti-Semitism.

DNB, the official news agency, said "the ambassador will inform the foreign minister in detail concerning the queer attitude toward events in Germany of a domestic nature which is apparent from declarations by Roosevelt and other authoritative personalities in the United States of America."

Officials generally had expected that Dieckhoff would return to Berlin to report only after Wilson had conferred with President Roosevelt.

Governs Future Action.

Upon the nature of the American envoy's report, the gist of which Dieckhoff had been expected to learn, would depend the next German step, informed circles believed.

Yesterday, however, it was learned reliably, reports from the United States were considered by Nazis to be so unfavorable that the immediate summons to Dieckhoff was decided upon.

Those statements were said to have compared the general attitude during the Czechoslovak-German crisis in September with the present American frame of mind and to have noted a change from approval, because Americans felt Germany's annexation of the Sudeten areas meant the union of Germans with Germans, to one of "95 per cent" indignation over the handling of the Jewish situation.

In a press conference Tuesday President Roosevelt said public opinion in the United States had been profoundly shocked by news from Germany of anti-Jewish violence.

Early Departure Seen for Dieckhoff

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A German embassy secretary said today Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff, called home to Berlin, might leave New York City Tuesday.

The embassy announced receipt of official orders telling Dieckhoff to return but said the actual time of sailing was uncertain.

Should he leave Tuesday, his ship would be traveling eastbound on the Atlantic while another liner is bringing home the American ambassador to Germany, Hugh R. Wilson.

Wilson was called back to the United States by President Roosevelt for "report and consultation" following Germany's campaign against the Jews.

Dr. Hans Thomsen, embassy counselor, will be in charge during Dieckhoff's absence. The embassy secretary said he had no idea how long that would be.

Embassy attaches said Dieckhoff's recall orders were received by cable early this morning. He was told to come home at once for "consultation."

LONDON: Britain Scours Her Colonies To Find Home for Jews

(By United Press)

LONDON—The British government, largely as the result of the initiative of American Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, scoured the colonial empire today for suitable homes for German Jews.

The announcement by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in commons that the government was taking this urgent step, was interpreted as approval of the ambassador's plan.

Telegrams have been sent to the governors of such colonies as British Guiana, Tanganyika, Rhodesia and Kenya asking them to investigate the possibility of settling refugees.

Anglo-United States efforts to help German Jews were now expected to develop as follows:

1. Chamberlain will announce Tuesday the possibilities of refugee settlements in the colonies.

2. If the colonies are able to accommodate large numbers, a campaign will be started in the United States to raise money to establish the refugees in their new homes.

3. The five-power directorate of the inter-governmental committee, including Britain, France, the United States, Brazil and The Netherlands will meet within two weeks to consider the plan and possibly arrange the details of transfer.

The campaign in the United States will be conducted mainly by Jewish and other private organizations, but some quarters believed President Roosevelt would ask and advocate a large government appropriation.

BERLIN: Five Countries Near Germany Curb Trade With Nazi

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—The anti-Jewish drive is costing Germany orders for her goods from abroad and it appeared today that other economic difficulties might follow.

One exporter said all orders had been cancelled by customers in five leading countries around Germany.

Another asserted ruefully that the steep downward curve of business extended beyond the bottom of his sales graph.

The sharp decrease of foreign orders, manufacturers said, was the first effect they noted after the wrecking of Jewish shops, the decrees ordering these shops under Aryan proprietorship, and that $400,000,000 fine a consequence of the shooting by a Jewish boy of the Paris embassy secretary, Ernst von Rath, who was buried yesterday with Nazi honors.

New prohibitions include, the newspaper Angriff said, one against tennant right for Jews which would permit an Aryan wanting a Jew's home to have him evicted overnight. The paper said some 8,000 homes in Berlin would become available shortly for Aryans.

With new restrictions becoming known daily while Nazi newspapers continue attacks upon the United States and Britain for their expressions of resentment, industrialists have asked that German chambers of commerce abroad examine market possibilities more exhaustively and try to provide counter-stimulants.

Experts of the economics ministry, meanwhile, are studying how the wholesale "Aryanization" of Jewish capital may be handled without doing serious harm to the national interest.

Blind Sculptor Feels And Then Moulds Alligator

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — Blind 25 years, Richard St. Cloud, 33, of Los Angeles achieved his ambition when he modeled an alligator from life.

A month before he was blinded by a nitroglycerin cap when he was 8 years old, St. Cloud saw his only alligator, embroidered in beads on the back of an Arizona Indian girl's sweater.

Recently he enlisted the aid of Francis Earnest, manager of a Los Angeles alligator farm.

Billy, 200-year-old alligator, was used as a model as St. Cloud ran his sensitive fingers over the snout, tail, sawtooth bumps and squat legs.

Fifteen minutes later St. Cloud had Billy modeled in clay.

WHIP PIERCED HEART

JOHANNESBURG — (AP) — Armed with a long horsewhip with wire attached to the end, a native flicked it over oxen he was driving and on the rebound the wire pierced his heart. He died almost immediately.

DUKE SPONSORS ORPHAN

WANSTEAD, Eng. — (AP) — The Duke of Kent entered Cyril Day, 10, in the orphanage here. The boy's father died after a fall while decorating his store to welcome the Duke to Needham Market, Suffolk.

ACT AS BAROMETER

SYDNEY, Australia — (U.P.) — A family here has a novel barometer in the shape of a small model ship made entirely of cloves strung together by fine wire. The ship was brought from the cloves-producing center in the South Sea Islands. With every change of weather, the scent of the cloves changes. It becomes fainter or stronger according to the degree of dampness in the air.

CHAPTER I

SARA SUE DAVIS dropped her brush back into the paint can and ran to the attic window. Outside, a banshee had wailed, or a panther had screamed, or both. "EE-YEA-A-A-A-HAH-ah-ah-ah yeow!"

For a half minute Sara Sue stared, enraptured. Her heart picked up in tempo. Through a cobwebby, atticky fuzz she watched a bus across Main boulevard disgorging its animated cargo. From its maw came an incredible number of boys, and a few even came from its windows. All of them seemed hopelessly entangled in suitcases, raincoats, handshaking, backslapping, laughter, whistling, comaraderie de luxe.

"Mother!" Sara Sue shrieked down the stairs. "They're coming! The first bus is here!"

"Yes, darling!" Mother Davis had been at a window, too.

A third party, highly interested, protruded his ebony neck from a kitchen door. He was Raymond Jones, long since rechristened Calculus.

"Lawd, lawd, ah oughta be over there mah own self, Miss Sara Sue!" Calculus called now. "They sho come a hellin', don't they?"

"You stay where you are, Calculus, or I'll come a hellin' myself!" Sara Sue ordered good-naturedly. "You're not a sophomore, remember. You've been at Rice 10 years at least, haven't you?"

"Fo'teen, ma'am. But ah still likes it."

That was true. Calculus Jones, happy odd-job man, had been nicknamed by the class of '24 when he was a "freshman." He reputedly knew more about the university than its president did. And for five summers he and his enormous wife, Cleopatra, worked for Sara Sue Davis. He and Cleo had been loud and sincere mourners when Sara Sue's young husband has been accidentally killed in 1934. He and Cleo often said they "belonged" to the young window.

"I don't blame you, Calculus." Sara Sue had come downstairs now. "I like it, too. That's why I'm here."

"You woulda went to Rice you' own self, ef you hadn't falled in love, ma'am."

He said it tenderly He was remembering when pretty Sara Sue Lanning, fresh out of Houston high school, had eloped with a Rice athlete. But he thoughtfully turned the talk back to current interest.

"I sees Mistuh Bob comin' outa that bus, heh heh! Football sho gonna pick up now. He been late for practice"

"Who?" asked Sara Sue.

"Mistuh Bob, the end man, ma'am."

"Oh, Bob Towne. Towne, mother. We saw him play last fall, remember? Right end. Best end Rice ever had."

"Yes'm, sho is."

In this autumn of 1938, Sara Sue Davis, along with practically everybody else in Texas, was doubly interested in Rice Institute. Rice had won championships last year in both track and football, despite the fact that its enrollment was smallest of all the Southwestern conference colleges. People just naturally like to see a small fellow win. And people wouldn't criticize Rice; it maintains high scholastic standing, it is independent of such things as politics, is privately endowed as a free college for the more worthy southern youths.

"And there s Miss Peaches' long car slinkin' up over there now," Calculus resumed, grumblingly. "Doggone, she can sho tell when Mistuh Bob arrive in town! He hardly git here when she—"

"Hush Calculus!" Sara Sue chided the colored man. "You're an old gossip."

"Yes'm. No'm, I mean." He grinned his apologies, and resumed work. His task for the morning was to make the cottage super clean. With students arriving, customers might start coming any time, Sara Sue reminded him.

The girl thrilled a little at the very though of customers. She had never been in business before. She had held a few short-time jobs, but mostly she had lived on the insurance money her husband had left. It had run low, and someone had suggested that she open a tea room near the Rice campus.

But it wasn't going to be a tea room.

* * *

Somehow, Sara Sue Davis—the extraordinarily youngish and lovely widow Davis—did not like the idea of a tea room It had been suggested to her, not by her Tea room! It sounded too dainty. No, not dainty, but—. Well, she had been reared with a love of tomboyish action, of football and swimming and such virile sports. Her Larry had been a Rice halfback. True, the heartache of Larry's passing had been eased now by time, and her own youth. But—oh, well, she didn't want a tea room; there were too many of them.

She and her Mother Davis had surveyed her possibilities, and then all at once Sara had been struck by her Grand Idea!

At least she thought it was grand. She had an instant enthusiasm for it, and that's half of any busines battle. She had gone to her banker to discuss it, and he had smilingly decided it might work.

"This year of 1938 is a recession year, Sara Sue," the banker had admitted. "But don't be afraid. Slack times are when we should sow busines seed, always. The weaklings are crowded out now. The courageous lay the groundwork for success while other people whine. You have a few hundred dollars, enough to form a corporation. Go on and try your plan It is much better than hunting a $20-a-week job."

* * *

That counsel had boosted her spirits immensely. But, riding home that day, she had been rather frightened, too.

She, the widow Davis, knew little about business. Her occasional jobs had given her but limited experience. True, she was undoubtedly more mature now than she had been, she told herself. She had married at 18. A girl is awfully young, then. At 23 one can think more sensibly. A honeymoon year and and a tragedy and four years to recover one's spirit—these things all amount to "experience," don't they?

Sara Sara asked herself that, and answered herself 'yes.' Her thinking might have been amusing to an elderly person, for she was still so young, so sweet and young. But any elderly person would have admired her spirit; the banker, for instance, did. And so did her kindly, beloved mother-in-law, also left alone by Larry's passing. It made no difference if the girl's plan was startingly new, different, untried. It takes youth to set precedents; in America, old fogeys in business are definitely out of style.

Sara Sue's first move had been a visit to the Houston Chronicle, the Houston Press, and the Houston Post.

"I want a classified advertisement," she told each paper, "for a house as near the Rice Institute campus as I can get it."

Rice is four miles from the business center of Texas' largest city. Four miles straight south on Main boulevard—a broad and impressive avenue, prettiest in the southwest. Rice itself, generously endowed by an esthete, is a place of superlative beauty, a collection of architectural gems amid century-old oaks and elms and pines. Sara Sue loved the place. The hope of living near it thrilled her.

Residences nearby were not easy to find. Most of them were above her purse. Houston has not permitted junky, ugly construction near its beautiful university; indeed, the bordering subdivisions are almost as clean and new and lovely as the university campus itself. The house Sara Sue finally leased—"a perfect dream of a cottage, mother dear," cost her $50 a month, a lot of money for a widow just 23 years old.

But she was happy there, and happily busy in her plan. Conscripting Calculus and his fat wife Cleo, she had proved a hard taskmaster, working herself hardest of all. But the cottage was becoming spotless and inviting—and her new sign was almost done. The sign, she felt, was really most important. It and the advertisement she had ordered in The Thresher, Rice student newspaper, which also would appear today.

* * *

Putting on the last touches of paint, she stood back to read her lettering. "O-o-oh golly," she breathed, "I wonder if people will think I'm crazy!"

She finished her sign by noon, when the second bus load of hilarious students arrived across the street, and by I p. m. she and Calculus had it hanging near her sidewalk. The two stood back to admire it.

"I prophesys prosperity for yo' new bizness, Miss Sara Sue," Calculus declared, earnestly. "On account of yo' certainly does know about true love, yes'm."

Sara Sue smiled her thanks. She wished she could feel as confident as her servant.

SUIT INVOLVING OFFICIAL ONE OF 5 UP FOR TRIAL

County Recorder Co-defendant In Action Brought Against Two Contractors.

A suit involving a $2,892 foreclosure action against County Recorder Howard Wenning and A. J. Duffey and C. L. Myers, Mansfield contractors, is one of five cases scheduled for trial next week before the Richland county petit jury.

The action, filed by the Tinkey Lumber company, seeks foreclosure sale of Wenning's property in Woodland and a $2,892 judgment against the contractors for materials used in the construction of the Wenning home.

The plaintiff contends that the contractors have failed to pay for the lumber and building materials for the home. Wenning is named as co-defendant in the suit because he is owner of the property.

The case is set for trial Monday, with Atty. W. H. Gifford representing the plaintiff company and Attys. C. J. Kalbfleisch and Nist and O'Donnell as counsel for the defendants.

Sues Over Flooded Land.

Scheduled for trial Wednesday is a suit against Carl H. Stander, president of the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company, which seeks $2,500 damages for the alleged flooding of a property owned by John A. McCue at 35 West First street, by surface water.

McCue contends that Stander, who owns an adjoining lot, graded the lot in such a manner as to cause the surface water to flow onto his property.

McCue is represented by Attys. Nist and O'Donnell and R. J. Brown. Stander is represented by Atty. George H. Blecker.

An action seeking industrial compensation for the death of Leonard Mynhier, late of Shelby, will be heard Tuesday. The suit, filed by Hobert Mynhier, as administrator of the estate, is against the Ohio Industrial commission.

It contends that Leonard Mynhier was killed in November, 1936, while employed by C. A. Black of Shelby. Attys. George H. Blecker and Marshall C. Moore will be counsel for the plaintiff and Atty. Eugene Carlin for the Industrial commission.

Other cases scheduled for hearing are:

Helen Shelly vs. Hubert Dent, for a $112 judgment on account, Attys. Beam and Beam for plaintiff and F. R. O'Brien for defendant.

Jay Appleman vs. Roy Miller, for $100 damages and recovery of 12 head of sheep and five lambs. Attys. Beam and Beam will argue the case for Appleman and A. S. Beach for the defendant.

'LOVE' BLAMED IN TWO DEATHS

Restaurateur Kills Woman, 27, Shoots Self as Auto Falls Over 25-Foot Wall.

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO—A murder and suicide involving a spectacular automobile crash was blamed by police on the jealousy of a Bulgarian restaurateur over the woman "I love more than anything else in the world."

The restaurateur, ePter Pellin, fired two shots into the body of Miss Elberta Cobb, 27, as she was driving his car on Grand avenue just before it came to a turn protected by a guard rail.

Miss Cobb slumped over the driver's wheel, the car tore through the guard rail over a 25-foot retaining wall, somersaulted in mid-air and smashed in the back yard of a private residence.

Pellin, sometime in the course of the car's wild plunge, fired a bullet into his head, investigators said.

Miss Cobb collapsed and died in the arms of a witness to the crash who pulled her from the machine shortly before it caught fire. Another witness extinguished the fire.

Pellin was pulled from the wreckage and taken to a hospital where he died shortly.

A note found in the machine said:

"I, Peter Pellin, am voluntarily committing suicide for the love of Elberta Cobb."

"RELISH EVERY BITE I EAT NOW," SAYS MANSFIELD STEEL WORKER

It is first time in years he can eat without having gas, bloating, sour risings, and other distress. Tells of other benefits Vendol also gave.

MR. S. N. SCHLENBAKER

There is no more distressing symptom of upset stomach and indigestion than a sour, bloated, gassy feeling after eating, which so often sends one racing off for a dose of soda or magnesia. People troubled like this due to constipation and excess acidity should lose no time in visiting the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., and learn what this splendid medicine has done to relieve so many local people who suffered for years from such troubles. It may be just what you need, just as described by Mr. S. N. Schlenbaker, of route 2, Mansfield, employed at the Empire Sheet & Tin Plate Co., who says:

"The cause of all my troubles was constipation which kept me taking some kind of strong laxative most all the time, and some time back I began to be troubled with gas attacks after every meal, no matter how little I ate or how careful I was in the selection of my foods. I'd simply fill up so with this painful gas and had such a bloated feeling that I felt terribly short of breath. Then, too, I was bothered a lot with dizzy spells, which turned everything black before me, my tongue was coated and almost every morning I'd get up with a headache and bad taste in my mouth. To make matters even worse, I had an aching misery in my arms and legs which often prevented my getting peaceful sleep, and I could never rid myself of a tired, wornout, sluggish feeling.

"I tried different treatments but when I started on Vendol I soon found this was what I really needed and it acted like a charm. Now, amazing as it seems, I can eat just anything I please without even a sign of any of the old gas attacks. And, to make my happiness complete, the dizzy spells, headaches, aching in my legs and arms and wornout feeling seem to have left me as well. I get restful sleep every night and arise of mornings ready for my day's work. You can depend on me to recommend this great medicine, because it is grand."

You can't go wrong in giving Vendol a chance to help you the same way. Its Roots, Herbs and Alkalines will make you FEEL better and LOOK better. Visit the Vendol Man (formerly at Weinberger's) who now has headquarters at the Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & 4th Sts., and learn all about it. Most all druggists sell Vendol; come today—there is no charge.

Harvard Looks Tough, Too

By HERBERT W. BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Holding in abeyance a dictionary amendment proposing to define football as a "game of chance," this guesser, however misguided, hazards the following convictions as to this week's program:

NORTHWESTERN-NOTRE DAME: The temptation is strong to select this as the spot that marks Notre Dame's downfall. Northwestern can match the Irish in man-power, something no other rival has done, and has a habit of playing its best against South Bend outfits. But that's just whistling in the dark. Waiving immunity, Notre Dame.

YALE-HARVARD: Dick Harlow's Harvard teams develop steadily and smoothly, week by week, slowly mastering the intricasies of the Harlow hocus-pocus. It's never safe to hold Yale lightly in an objective game but this ballot goes to Harvard.

DUKE-NORTH CAROLINA STATE: Can't see how Duke can lose.

RICE-TEXAS CHRISTIAN: Unpredictable Rice may give the unbeaten Horned Frogs some trouble but Christian should win safely.

CALIFORNIA-STANFORD: California shouldn't find this too tough to hurdle.

WISCONSIN-MINNESOTA: Harry Stuhldreher's Badgers must have caught fire, judging by successive victories over Northwestern and U. C. L. A. With the Big Ten title in the bag for the winner, this should be one of the day's outstanding fights. One faltering vote for Wisconsin.

PITT-PENN STATE: The Nittany Lions are fast but light. Pitt is fast and heavy. If Goldberg returns it probably will be a rout but with or without Goldberg, Pitt.

PRINCETON-ARMY: Hard to figure but Army gets the nod on the theory that the Tigers hit their peak last week.

OHIO STATE-MICHIGAN: Either can figure in the Big Ten title if Wisconsin and Minnesota tie. Michigan has been the more consistent and rates an edge on that basis alone.

IOWA STATE-OKLAHOMA: The Cyclones are surprisingly tough but seem to lack undefeated and untied Oklahoma's all-around class. Oklahoma.

AUBURN-GEORGIA: The Plainsmen seem finally to have mustered an attack. Auburn.

* * * * *

Rams Get Nod Over South Carolina.

FORDHAM-SOUTH CAROLINA: The Southerners have come far since last season but the Rams look too strong. Fordham.

COLUMBIA-SYRACUSE: No harder one to pick. Out of the hat, Syracuse.

MARYLAND-GEORGETOWN: Georgetown's clean slate looks safe.

MANHATTAN-WEST VIRGINIA: The coin says Manhattan.

LAFAYETTE-LEHIGH: Lafayette.

CHICAGO-ILLINOIS: Illinois.

IOWA-NEBRASKA: Both well-beaten and not much to choose. Nebraska.

MICHIGAN STATE-TEMPLE: Johnny Pingel ought to provide the winning margin for Michigan State.

DETROIT-TULSA: Even-Stephen but take Detroit.

GEORGIA TECH-FLORIDA: Tech handily.

BAYLOR-SOUTHERN METHODIST: Ouch! From the bottom of an exceedingly deep hole, Southern Methodist.

OREGON-WASHINGTON: Close enough. Washington.

Skipping over the chalklines otherwise: Villanova over Boston university; Tulane over Sewanee; Utah over Wyoming; Brigham Young over Colorado State; Idaho over Utah State.

Favored To Beat Canton

Massillon Gets Edge on Speed, Deception for Saturday's Game.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—In the climax game of the 1938 scholastic football season, Canton McKinley's Bulldogs will tackle Massillon's Tigers for the mythical state prep championship Saturday afternoon before a crowd of 22,000 in Massillon's stadium.

The 43rd meeting between these two titans of the gridiron, less than eight miles apart geographically, will top off a furious pigskin campaign for Ohio high schools. Only 10 teams remain in the undefeated-untied class and two of them are McKinley and Massillon.

Dangerous In Air.

Coach Paul Brown's Tigers will rate as slight favorites to repulse the Bulldogs and continue their four-year reign atop the state standings. Experts believe that greater speed, more deception and a stronger aerial attack will bring victory to Massillon although McKinley is given an excellent chance to upset the Tigers.

Brown believes his 1938 aggregation is the best balanced of the past four which between them dropped only one game.

The 1938 outfit stresses team play. Capt. Vince Snyder, with 14 touchdowns; Ray Getz, with 50 points, and George Slusser with 36 points are the outstanding backs.

The Tigers will be in for a gruelling game. Coach John Reed has his Bulldogs in their best physical condition of the year and keyed for the championship tilt. The Bulldog attack revolves around Marion Motley, a 190-pound colored halfback, a gifted runner and clever passer. He has amassed 113 points in seven games. Nick Roman at end is a prize pass receiver and has averaged 45 yards as the Bulldogs' regular punter.

Three County Teams Open Cage Sked Tonight.

Three Richland county basketball teams instead of one as announced previously will open the season tonight.

In addition to Union, Plymouth and Adario will lift the lid tonight. Adario performs at Plymouth, while Union is host to Hayesville.

Grapplers Return Tonight

Double Windup Features 1st Show in Armory Ring Since June.

THE first professional wrestling program to be staged here since last June will be served up to Mansfield mat fans in the Armory tonight by the Quality club.

Stecklin

A program of three bouts, topped by a "double main event," will bring six light-heavyweights into action.

Ace attraction of the card, a bout expected to provide dynamite, presents Gordon Arquette, the Indian contender from Yakima, Wash., and Frank Remille of Portland, Ore. The former is bent upon a campaign which he hopes will establish him as the first Indian to wear the light-heavyweight crown and his recent record indicates he may attain the goal. Remille, a new face for Mansfield fans, is said to be one of the best lads produced on the coast in years.

Lem Stecklin, the wrestling hillbilly from Smokemont, Tenn., who wrestles in overalls, will demonstrate his prowess against Bill "Indian Ike" Cazzell, half-breed from Laredo, Texas. Stecklin has promised to bring along his pet coon, who sits on the ropes in Lem's corner and occasionally gets into the action. Stecklin was suspended recently in California because the coon ripped up one of his opponents.

Opening the card will be the one fall, thirty minute time limit match between Ray Schwarz, youthful German, and Lon Chaney, a newcomer from Chicago. That's the latter's real name and he claims no kinship to the late screen star. Schwarz and Chaney will be in the ring at 8:30.

Miller, Harmon, Wilkins Twins In Last Game as Rams Tonight

TONIGHT Madison high school's once-defeated Rams will meet Mt. Gilead on the Madison greensward at 8 p. m. in a game that will determine the Mid-State league title.

Tomorrow Coach Al Fendrick will attempt to forget football until next fall, but the Madison coach may find it difficult to do this.

Fendrick will long remember his 1938 edition, which has lost only to Mt. Vernon, and he will miss the six men who play their final game for the Rams tonight.

June graduation will take Capt. Joe Miller, Gene Harmon, Twins Bill and Bob Wilkins, Mel Harner and George Kanz. In other words, Madison loses six of the greatest players ever to wear Madison Ram livery.

"But their loss will be my worry next year," Fendrick said. "Today we're going to think about Mt. Gilead."

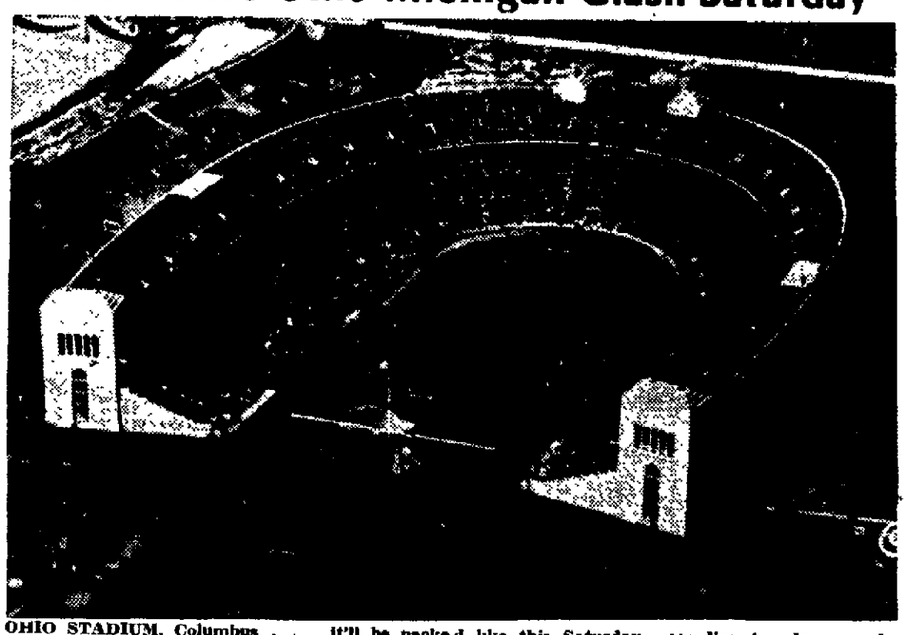
Fendrick figures the Rams are in for one of their toughest games of the season tonight, but he has the club in fine shape. He said today that Madison is ready for a battle.

The Rams are not only anxious to win the game, but also to score as many touchdowns as possible. Madison is the present state scoring leader with 301 points, and it may have to bolster the total tonight to protect the advantage. Harmon is one of the state's individual scoring leaders.

Mt. Gilead brings a team to the Madison field tonight which has been coming along fast of late. It has not permitted a point in the last four games, and followers of the Indians figure the team is due to give Madison a tussle.

Tonight's game will mark the close of the season for both clubs.

Here's Where Ohio-Michigan Clash Saturday



OHIO STADIUM, Columbus . . . it'll be packed like this Saturday, according to advance sale.

Wolves Favored To Win

Visitors Hold Heavy Advantage in Speed, Versatility In Saturday's Tilt.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio's capital was in the first stages of pigskin hysteria today, with the craze scheduled to reach its zenith at 2 p. m. Saturday before 65,000 fans as Michigan's Wolverines clash with the Bucks in one of the midwest's most colorful and ancient gridiron rivalries.

The mere meeting of the titans—regardless of their season records—always is ample to set this town agog, but there was plenty of added fuel for the present conflagration.

Title Hopes at Stake.

In the first place the Western conference title hopes of the teams rode on the outcome. Then, too, Saturday is homecoming day for Ohio State, and the old grads are coming back in hopes of watching the under-grads hand the Wolves their fifth straight whitewashing with the Buckeye brush. Add to that the facts that Ohio is the underdog for the first time in five years, that it's the final game of the season, and that the rival coaches are two of the most noted "phrase-makers" in the land, and you'll have at least a portion of the picture.

Five years ago Francis A. Schmidt took over the Ohio helm with the remark that "those Michigans put on their pants one leg at a time just like anyone else." He proved his point by piloting his teams to four straight wins over the Wolves, not allowing them a point while his own proteges amassed 114.

This year H. O. (Fritz) Crisler grabbed the Wolverine leash and started leading it out of the wilderness. Asked what he was go-

Wayne Hursh Collects 14 Strikes In Row, 290 Game

Yuncker Sports' Star Registers String In Two Tilts to Set New Record in B League.

COLLECTING 14 strikes in a row without rolling a perfect game, Wayne Hursh of the Yuncker Sports accomplished one of the outstanding bowling feats of the season at the Meder alleys last night in the Commercial B league.

Hursh started his sensation string of strikes in his second game after opening with a spare. He then followed with 11 perfect hits for a record-breaking 290 game.

4-Pin Halts String.

The Yuncker star added to his string of strikes in the first three frames of his last game. Then a four-pin stand on what appeared another sure 1-3 hit halted the string.

Hursh, who started his string with a 170, finished with a 201 to annex the individual scoring honors with a 661 total.

All of Hursh's pitches were in the "pocket" perfectly except No. 14, which hit the headpin flush. The ball, however, carried enough spin to fell all the pins.

This was the longest string of strikes rolled on the Mansfield alleys since last winter when Sonny Meder, Art Hilborn and Ralph Schad rolled their perfect games in league competition.

Carl Willis, jr., contributed a 606 to the Yuncker team's 2672 total, to enable it to take two games from the Shelby Bicycles.

The Satterlee Restaurant pinsters again won team scoring honors with a nifty 2865, which was good for two wins over the Mansfield Rugs, who hit for 2777. Diamond led the Rugs with a 622.

Gains Undisputed Lead.

The game won by the Rugmen enabled the Office Cafe to regain undisputed possession of first place. It won three games from the Ohio Public Service entry with a 2713 total to break the tie with Satterlee's men.

The Mansfield Printers crawled within one game of the Satterlee team by sweeping their series with the Kochheiser Sports with a 2703 total. In the other matches, Met's Auto Supplies took two games from the Burghardt Cafe and Ringside Cafe added two wins at the expense of the Heilman Grocers.

Sophia Meder, Thelma Linster and Mary McMullen held the scoring spotlight in the Women's league at the Meder alleys last night. The former started with a 210 and finished with a 194 as the Moderne Beauty Shoppe hit for 2168, which was good for a pair of wins over Harvey's Sample Shoes.

Thelma whipped up a 222 in her last game for a 537 as she led the Richland Printers to a sweep over the Morgan Dry Cleaners. Mary rolled a 528 for the Dry Cleaners. Shelly's Candies won two games from the Office Cafe in the other match.

Bantams Set For Two Tilts

Go to Orrville Tonight; Play at Home Sunday.

Coach Harry Dandakis today announced his Adam bantamweight football team is in great shape for its two encounters in three days.

The Bantams go to Orrville tonight to engage the touted Harris Paints of Wooster in a benefit game, and meet the South Akron Awnings in a benefit game for Michael Ondov at the Fairground Sunday afternoon.

Both of these games will offer the Mansfield team trouble, and Coach Dandakis said today that he would be well satisfied with an even break.

The only defeat suffered by the Wooster eleven this season was administered by the Cleveland Skippies, who it will meet again before the season closes for the state title. It recently defeated the Akron Bismarcks, who walloped the Mansfield club, 25 to 0.

The Mansfielders and the Akronites, who collide Sunday, recently played to a scoreless tie. The re-match was the result of a challenge issued by the Akron team's management.

CORNELL REFUSES GAME

ITHACA, N. Y.—(INS)—Adhering to its policy against post-season football games, Cornell today turned down an offer to play Santa Clara on the west coast for the benefit of Los Angele's Catholic charities on Dec. 31.

OFFERED BOWL BIDS.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Oklahoma and Villanova each can have a $25,000 guarantee for an eastern bowl game to be played in New York, Dec. 10, it was learned today.

Brownie Club Faces Test In K-B Line

No Opponent Has Scored Through Wall Yet.

Just how strong Brownie's Misfits will be defensively is not known, but it will have to pack power to disturb the Kallamerten and Baer Coal's line when they clash at League park Sunday for the city semi-pro title.

The Coalmen lost more than their share of ball games so far this season, but an opponent has yet to score through their line. Virtually all of the touchdowns tallied by their foes came via the passing route.

The Coal's boast of a line that is powerful from end to end. Bill Moritz, last year's Madison high captain, holds down one of the flanks. Paul Sturgeon of Mansfield high is at the other terminal.

The tackle posts are filled by Jim Gordon and Mike Miller, who have been practically immovable this season. Coach Gip Miller has a pair of fine running guards in Gaylord Bucher, all-Ohioan twice while at Mansfield high, and Ed Zediker, another former Mansfield high great. Daryle Gordon holds down the pivot post.

Miller will also present a fine backfield. Included in it are Bill Hall, who starred as a freshman at Illinois; Rabbit Siler, a veteran semi-pro star; Gil Weigand, Harper Au and Vern Heiser, late of Mansfield high, and George Mays and Tom Powers.

Powers, incidentally, is the heaviest man on the Kallmerten and Baer club. He tips the scales at 230.

DEADLOCKED FOR LEAD

PINEHURST, N. Church Loops Re-elect Brown

Cage League to Start Play Early in December.

Francis Brown was re-elected president of the Church Athletic association at a meeting held last evening at the Y. M. C. A. Irvine Brune was named vice president and D. S. Murray was named secretary.

The Church leagues will get underway Dec. 6 when the Church B league will open and the A league open on the following night. The Church C league for boys 15 years old and under will start Dec. 10.

Several new rules were added namely that each player must pay a registration fee of 25 cents into the association before they are eligible to participate in league games. All entry blanks, eligibility blanks and fees must be in the hands of the league treasurer by Wednesday, Nov. 30.

The leagues this year will play a split season with the winners of the first round and the second round winners meeting in all three leagues to decide the final championship.

Few Games On Ohio Program

Ohio U. Meets Marshall, Carroll Faces Akron.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A slim football card of six games today awaited those Ohio pigskin fans who won't be around Columbus for the Ohio State-Michigan fray.

Chief attractions among the within-the-state encounters are the John Carroll-Akron and Marshall-Ohio university bouts.

The latter scrap, a Buckeye conference game, will go a long way toward deciding the league winner. Despite Marshall's mid-season slump, that team was favored.

Baldwin-Wallace at Xavier, Case at Oberlin, Heidelberg at Denison and Mt. Union at Muskingum were other "at home" tilts scheduled.

Wooster, Youngstown and Ohio Wesleyan were to wander afield for intersectional tussles.

The Scots, Ohio conference titlists, were slated to meet Washington and Jefferson in Pennsylvania; Youngstown was to appear against Detroit Tech in Detroit, and Ohio Wesleyan was in Florida for an exchange of blows tonight with Rollins.

Apostoli, Corbett Fight for 'Title'

NEW YORK—(AP)—Having finished their training without a single fracture, Freddie Apostoli and Young Corbett III clash at Madison Square Garden tonight for the "world middleweight championship," as it is understood by the New York state athletic commission.

Prospects are that the two Californians will settle their argument in semi-privacy, with fewer than 10,000 scattered about the big arena. The fight has failed to catch on, partly because the house has been scaled at championship prices and many fans do not think it is a bona fide championship fight.

The title for which Apostoli and Corbett fight is an ephemeral something, created by the state boxing commission. The other 160-pound title is held by Solly Krieger of Brooklyn, by virtue of his recent win over Al Hostak in Seattle.

MADNESS GRIPS COLUMBUS

ing to do about those tough Ohioans, Crisler answered: "I didn't come out here to lose."

He's made good on that, too, for the Wolverines' record shows only one defeat and one tie in seven starts, the defeat being a one-pointer at the hands of mighty Minnesota. Ohio, on the other hand, has bowed twice and been tied once in seven games.

The Bucks have the edge in weight, but the Wolverines are given a heavy advantage in speed and versatility.

Michigan, which in former years has invaded Columbus the day before the game for a final tuneup on the stadium turf, shifted its plans and will not arrive until 12:30 p. m. Saturday, just in time to dress for the fray.

Fill Hotels, Frat Houses.

In the meantime the returning grads and other fans started descending on the city today, filling hotels and fraternity and sorority houses. A bonfire pep meeting is slated on the campus tonight, followed by dances and parties everywhere. The 120-piece Ohio State band has been doubled for the game.

DECIDE ON BALL

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The control board of the Ohio High School Athletic association will assemble here tonight to choose between moulded and seamed types of basketballs for official play in the state cage tournament next March.

SATURDAY BROADCASTS

1:30—P. M.—Yale vs. Harvard WOR-MBS.

1:45—Ohio State vs. Michigan, WEAF-NBC and WOR-MBS about 4:15.

If Ohio State Wins and - - ? Well, You Try to Figure It

CHICAGO—(AP)—Here are a few reasons why Big Ten football fans are groggy attempting to figure out the possible finishes of the 1938 conference football race which will end Saturday:

1—If Minnesota and Wisconsin tie and Ohio State beats Michigan, Ohio State wins the undisputed title. (Ties do not figure in percentages).

2—If Minnesota wins and Michigan beats Ohio State, Minnesota wins an undisputed title.

3—If Wisconsin wins and Michigan beans Ohio State, Wisconsin wins an undisputed title.

4—If Minnesota and Ohio State win, they tie for the title.

5—If Wisconsin and Ohio State win, they tie.

6—If Minnesota and Wisconsin tie and Ohio State and Michigan tie and Purdue beats Indiana, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio State and Purdue tie for the title.

7—If Wisconsin and Minnesota tie, and Michigan and Purdue win, it will be Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan and Purdue tied for the title.

8—If Minnesota and Wisconsin tie, Michigan beats Ohio State, and Indiana defeats Purdue it will be Minnesota Wisconsin and Michigan tied.

9—If Wisconsin and Minnesota tie and Ohio State ties Michigan, and Indiana beats Purdue the race will end in a tie between Wisconsin, Minnesota and Ohio State.

Go ahead, try your luck. There probably are some other possibilities.

MARKET TURNS EARLY LOSSES INTO ADVANCES

Steels and Other Industrial Climbers Absorb Profit Selling With Ease.

NEW YORK—Early profit taking in steels and other industrial climbers of Thursday was absorbed without much difficulty in today's stock market and initial losses running to a point or so were later reduced or transformed into modest advances.

Wall Street's first thoughts on the new Anglo-American and Canadian trade treaties were that the agreement was constructive for business and markets generally.

The apparent aid given the farming industry by the treaty brought buying into the agricultural implement list, with J. I. Case, International Harvester, Deere and Caterpillar Tractor favored.

Pointing upward were Republic Steel, Douglas Aircraft, Southern Pacific, Westinghouse, Goodyear, American Can and Loew's.

Bonds and commodities were mixed. Securities improved on the London market but weakened in Paris.

Noted was the week-end review of Dun & Bradstreet which reported the recent cooler weather had brought a substantial pickup in retail spending. Department stores, it was said, hardest hit in the past several weeks, were especially benefitted.

The federal reserve system for the week ended Wednesday, disclosed excess reserve for member banks jumped $130,000,000 while commercial loans declined for the fifth consecutive week.

TINY FACTORY OF '88 THRIVED

Ohio Brass Is 50 Years Old Today But Company Passes Anniversary Quietly.

an important part in the development of the company, C. K. King. Mansfield was installing an electric railway—one of the first in the country—and King came to the city to supervise installation of equipment in connection with the railway system. He met the operator of the Ohio Brass company and decided to cast his fortunes with that concern.

Today he is president of the company.

That was in 1893 and the two men decided to branch out and manufacture trolly equipment which even today is one of the major branches of the Ohio Brass company. With the coming of the trolly buses, the firm has kept apace with progress by making equipment used for the overhead wires.

When the company started it was housed in a small two-story brick building with 20 employes. Today the big plant on North Main street near the corporation line is made up of a number of large buildings that occupy 73 acres of land and 15 acres of floor space. In normal times the number of employes fluctuate between 800 and 1,000.

In 1910 the company branched out by the purchase of the Ohio Insulator company at Barberton and began the manufacture of high tension electrical insulators, and in 1922 built a plant in Niagara Falls, Canada, for the manufacture of insulators.

Electrical equipment for mining, joint bonds for steam and electric railway rails and a new coupler for railway cars, also are products of the various plants.

The development of its foreign trade has been one of the most interesting phases of the company's growth. The first foreign agent was appointed in France in 1900, but it wasn't until 1917, during the World war, that the foreign trade department was organized. From 1920 to 1924 the foreign business grew tremendously as France, Spain, Italy, Sweden, Japan, New Zealand and Australia adopted extensive electrification programs.

In 1928 Mr. Black relinquished the presidency of the company to become chairman of the board, and Mr. King took up the duties of the president's office.

In the 50 years of its existence the Ohio Brass company has developed from a "Main Street" shop into a major industrial company which carries the name of Mansfield to every corner of the globe.

The company's only observance of its golden anniversary this year is the use of the two dates "1888-1938" in national and international advertising.

Two Important Reasons Why Gas Is The Choice At Cooking School —

1 Gas IS THE FINEST MODERN KITCHEN FUEL

2 Gas IS BY FAR THE MOST POPULAR KITCHEN FUEL

"You Can Get Cooking School Results In Your Own Home With a Tappan Gas Range"

Said Miss Ruth Chambers, Cooking School Lecturer

Miss Chambers praised the performance of the Tappan Gas range used in the Cooking School for the part it played in turning out such delicious good things to eat. "The Tappan Gas Range," said Miss Chambers, "had an important part to play and it did its job splendidly. You know, I'm sold on gas because of its cleanliness, flexibility, and because it is dependable and so easy to use."

"The housewife who is so fortunate as to have a modern Tappan gas range in her kitchen has a big advantage. Her cooking results are certain to be more accurate because of Tappan's many modern improvements."

Thank you, Miss Chambers. Thousands of housewives who have modern Tappan gas ranges in their kitchens will agree.

We invite you to visit the showrooms at The Gas Company see for yourself the many advantages the modern Tappan gas range has to offer.

Professor Foresees Chemical Compounds in Disease Fight.

BOSTON— (AP) —A possibility that all infectious diseases ultimately might be brought under control by the use of new chamical compounds such as sulfanilamide was suggested by Dr. Perrin H. Long, noted John Hopkins university professor and authority on the drug.

Interviewed before he spoke at the first New England post graduate assembly of the Massachusetts Medical society, Dr. Long said, "It would seem that eventually one might bring under control all infectious diseases with these new chemical compounds."

Dr. Long warned, however, against unprescribed use of the revolutionary new drug.

He said new compounds of sulfanilamide were being developed steadily and that tests of their efficiency were being conducted.

Watch Made In 1799 Continues To Give Service

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—A watch that was made in Boston nearly a century and a half ago still keeps time for H. J. Griffith of Portland.

The watch was made by William Ellery of Boston in 1789, and was presented to Griffith's grandfather, James Jackson Griffith, by the citizens of Philadelphia for outstanding service in the Pennsylvania assembly.

Since that time it has undergone numerous experiences which would have put most watches out of order beyond repair. It was carried through the Civil war by Griffith's father, who later lost it in a farm field.

It turned up months afterward in a bin of horse feed and was given to its present owner, who was 16 years old at the time.

Griffith forgot about the watch until he found it among his belongings recently and had it restored to good working order preparatory to turning it over to a museum.

STARTS DEC. 1

Bucyrus Police Radio System to Begin Operations.

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus' new police radio system will be in operation by Dec. 1, Mayor George T. Dustman announced today. Installation will be started Monday, by the Gustave Hirsch company of Columbus.

Bucyrus call letters have been designated at WQTQ by the federal communications commission in Washington.

The system, purchased through popular subscriptions of more than $1,000, will be a one-way system of 100 watt power, permitting contact with state highway patrol stations at Findlay, Massillon and radio stations in surrounding cities.

More Highway Patrolmen Needed.

OHIO'S highway patrol has reached such general acceptance and approval that it is hard to realize it was only five years ago this month that the original sixty highway patrolmen went on duty.

This state was slower than some others in introducing the highway patrol system and, even yet, the force is undermanned, although the personnel has since been increased to 190 and it is anticipated that 200 men will be on duty in this department by the first of the year.

From the very start there was careful selection of men for this service and the result is apparent in the efficient work being done and the confidence which people feel in this branch of law enforcement.

With district stations, sub-stations, radio communication, and a fleet of motorcycles and automobiles, the highway patrol has not only become an important factor in law enforcement but is also depended upon for quick action at scenes of accidents and in other emergencies.

As Ohio makes more serious approach to the problem of increasing highway safety, which will require stricter enforcement of traffic laws and considerable reduction in speed, there will be need for more highway patrolmen and the advisability of increasing the number to 300 may well receive early consideration. In Pennsylvania there are 1,500 highway patrolmen, with an enforced speed limit of 50 miles per hour. The effect, in reducing highway accidents and fatalities in that state, argues strongly for less speed and better law enforcement.

Farmers and Hunters.

THE HUNTING season, enjoyed by many sportsmen, is a time of misery for farmers who dread this particular time of year because of past experiences in having their property damaged and livestock endangered by careless and discourteous hunters who apparently have no regard for property rights.

It is the habit of some farmers to invite friends or acquaintances to hunt on their property, but it should be more generally understood that this is a privilege to be granted by the owners of farms, and that hunting on private property without permission is against the law.

The suggestion of one farm owner is that lists of the names of farmers who do not permit hunting on their premises be posted wherever hunting licenses are issued, so that prospective hunters could become informed in advance as to farms on which they were not permitted to hunt, except by invitation.

Farmers are at a disadvantage in not having available the immediate police protection accorded city dwellers, and the scant attention their rights are accorded by some hunters explains their sometimes indignant efforts to protect their own property against invasion and damage.

Greatest Modern Crime.

REGARDLESS of race, politics or self-interest, normal men and women can no longer look on with distant politeness while the German Nazis perpetrate the greatest crime against a helpless minority that has occurred since the Middle Ages. Deliberate cruelty, shameless robbery, unjust imprisonment and deprivation of all means of livelihood are driving 700,000 German and Austrian Jews relentlessly to starvation and suicide.

The humane people who make up the majority of mankind have been asking for many months how long this growing wickedness must continue. Free democracies, most sensitive to such barbarity, have hesitated to speak and act, because of international courtesy. But the patience of nations ruled by civilized governments is now at an end.

There is a rising roar of protest in Britain, France and other free countries of Europe. The American mood has been clearly shown and many American groups have joined in the indignant chorus.

Book-Buying Habits.

CLIFTON FADIMAN, critic, editor and master of ceremonies on a popular radio program, also lectures One of the things he tells eager audiences is why some books are best-sellers. Such a book is bought, he says, because:

It has been attacked by respectable people, thus making everybody want to read it.

The public likes it.

The title attracts interest.

The subject reinforces or dramatizes an idea of the buyer.

It promises self-culture or self-help.

It deals with scandal.

It promotes a feeling in the reader of personal acquaintance with the author.

This pretty nearly covers the field and even hints at why some people buy books that are not best-sellers. Although the list does not mention specifically literary value or religious inspiration or philosophy, works containing such treasure can be fitted into it under one or another head.

Edward Going Home.

EVEN offended royalty can't remain in high dudgeon forever. And perhaps members of the British royal family were never really so much offended by Edward's marriage as they pretended. That particular family has always seemed very human. And the present Queen, herself once a "commoner", might well forgive the woman who, by taking Edward off the throne, gave her a royal crown.

So the Duke of Windsor and his Duchess are expected to return to England soon, and to be received with honors due their station. King George, it is said, might even bestow on his American sister-in-law the title of "Royal Highness", which would give her entree in the most exclusive circles of the British court.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—For those who have forgotten their school book history and wish a quickie review, we give you—The Monroe Doctrine, one big reason the U. S. is building a bigger navy.

By 1820 Spanish colonies in the Americas were shaking off Spanish control. The United States diplomatically recognized them as fast as they did so.

France was casting covetous eyes upon America. On Oct 9, 1823, England served a virtual ultimatum on France and the rest of Europe to let Latin America alone. To a degree that jumped the gun on the U. S. in announcing a sort of "Monroe doctrine."

Earlier that year John Quincy Adams, secretary of state, had cautioned Russia against establishing itself on the Pacific coast.

* * *

Some Call It 'Impudent.'

ADAMS, Thomas Jefferson and President Monroe are variously credited with conceiving the Doctrine. President Monroe on Dec. 2, 1823, sent to congress a message embodying it. Some historians say it was an impudent gesture. Europe paid little attention. The British announcement already had stalled the French.

As outlined by the authoritative Yale historian, Samuel Flagg Bemis, the doctrine provided:

1—It does not comport with the policy of the United States to take any part in the politics or the wars of European powers in matters relating to themselves.

2—The United States would regard as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition to itself the effort of any European power to interfere with the political system of the American continents, or to acquire any new territory on these continents.

Nevertheless, we did not take arms against England when it seized the strategic Falkland Islands from Argentine in 1833. We did not oppose France in 1838, when it blockaded Vera Cruz to support claims against Mexico. When French and British fleets blockaded the coast of Argentina in 1845-48, President Pork nervously insisted that the Doctrine applied only to North America.

* * *

Thus Ended Maximilian.

IN 1861 Emperor Napolien III set Maximilian on the Mexican throne. When the Civil war ended the U. S., with veteran armies at hand, persuaded the French to leave. Thus abandoned, Maximilian died before a firing squad.

A Spanish invasion of Peru also during the Civil war period was ended by a firm U. S. attitude.

In 1896, England, alarmed by Kaiser Wilhelm's sympathy with the Boers, abruptly ended a dispute with the U. S. over the Venezuelan boundary.

Venezuela had further trouble with European powers in 1902 over payment of debts. Italy, Germany and Great Britain blockaded her ports. President Theodore Roosevelt laid the matter before The Hague tribunal, which imposed upon the U. S. the duty of overseeing the fulfillment by Venezuela of her agreements.

Spain was eliminated from the Americas in the Spanish war.

What has happened since?

* * *

It's Still the Doctrine.

THE United States has recognized an increasing participation by the other American republics in the protection of the hemisphere. Certain critics say we have traded away our independence in applying the Doctrine since technically the U. S. cannot act without consulting the other American republics.

Realistic observers say that, pacts or no, when foreign governments attempt lodgment within the Americas, the U. S. will interfere.

Sumner Welles, under-secretary of state, added the latest word within the past few days. Renewed U. S. armament, he said, is designed to back up Pan-Americanism by blocking foreign aggression in the western hemisphere—the whole of it.

SOMETHING TO FALL BACK ON!

Byrd To Push Reorganization Plan

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, already has mentioned that he intends to reopen the subject of reorganization of the executive end of the government at the next session of congress. Senator Byrd is an ardent reorganizationist, but the kind of reorganization he advocates is quite different from President Roosevelt's idea of what reorganization ought to be. A congressional reorganization committee, of which the Virginian was chairman, was functioning at the time a presidential reorganization commission was created, back in the early days of the last session on Capitol Hill.

Byrd.

I surmise that the presidential commission was put into action because the administration didn't like the direction that the Byrd committee seemed to be taking. Anyway, the two outfits were entirely distinct from one another. They also were mutually antagonistic.

Dominated by Brownlow.

Senator Byrd, as chairman, was the committee's principal personality. The commission was dominated by Louis Brownlow, no legislator at all, but a celebrated city manager and once a member of the District of Columbia's municipal governing body.

The Brownlow commission, backed by the president, sucked most of the wind out from behind the Byrd committee's sails, and got the commission's plan into the form of proposed legislation, which was fought for in congress notably by Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina. For awhile the commission's scheme looked like being adopted, too, though finally it was chloroformed in the house of representatives mainly by Chairman John O'Connor of the rules committee, since purged out of a Democratic renomination in the 16th New York congressional district.

Purged though he was, O'Connor's work lives after him.

Inasmuch as the New Dealers couldn't put through their reorganization program in the 75th congress, it isn't likely that they can do it in the 76th, considering that in the 76th they will be weaker than in the last one.

Yet it generally is agreed that reorganization is greatly needed.

Accordingly, the Brownlow prescription having been stymied, Byrd's will have another chance to be heard from.

The executive end of our government includes nearly 100 so-called "independent" offices. They're about 30 per cent executive, 30 per cent legislative, 30 per cent judicial and 10 per cent miscellaneous. They overlap, they conflict and approximately half of them are superfluous. Maybe the superfluous half meant something once, but they've outlived their usefulness.

Plus all this each cabinet department has a lot of sub-bureaus, which, it's conceded by everyone, would greatly benefit by overhauling and re-classification.

Efficiency Versus Economy.

Senator Byrd's notion is to eliminate and make compact. He reasons rightly that efficiency thus will be promoted, and he stresses the point that it will save money. Economy is a pretty important item with him.

The Brownlow plan doesn't contemplate any direct economies. In fact, it hints at the establishment of one or two additional cabinet departments. While it was under debate on Capitol Hill its opponents complained that it failed to promise any cut in appropriations. Senator Byrnes had to admit it, but contended that more efficiency indirectly would be economical.

The nub of it is:

Senator Byrnes holds that a couple of extra cabinet departments would trim down the size of the executive end of the government. Senator Byrd holds that they wouldn't.

Furthermore Byrd wants congress to do the reorganizing, according to what congress thinks best. Brownlow wants congress to authorize the president to reorganize "ad lib." and let him alone to go ahead with it, unbothered by legislative interference. His theory is that congress TALKS about reorganization but never DOES any; that ONE MAN could get results, left to do it by his own personal ukase.

Possibly he could. Dictatorial rule, if competent, IS efficient. Senator Byrd, however, doesn't consider it democratic.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Reverting to Paganism.

By GUS W. DYER

Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University.

The Pagan theory of life is that life and happiness come to the individual or nation as a result of being in a position to command commodities and services from others.

The abundant life is measured by the abundance of what you receive over and above what you give. Life and happiness are obtained by getting in the receiving line and holding your place there. Paganism repudiates work as a misfortune, because work represents giving and producing services. In the Pagan theory it is receiving from others, not giving to others, that brings the abundant life.

Wage earners are urged to write letters to Congress and use all the power they can command to reduce the hours of work and raise wages to the highest point possible, because this reduces what they give and increases what they receive. Likewise, farmers were led by the Administration to destroy over five million pigs for food, and "plow up" millions of acres of food and clothing material crops, in order that farmers might receive more and give less.

In addition, the Administration is taking vast sums from those who work and produce, and giving the money to millions of voters in order that they may stand in the receiving line and receive without giving, and thus enjoy the abundant life.

Under this Pagan theory the prime function of the transportation system and the factories is not to give the best service possible to the public but to take care of and make life easy for the employes. The purpose of agriculture is not to feed the world in the most efficient way possible, but to give the abundant life to the farmers at the expense of the consumers.

The Pagan theory is essentially destructive. It has destroyed every civilization that has adopted it.

The Christian theory of life is the very opposite of the Pagan. It puts the emphasis on giving, not receiving, on serving, not on being served. The great man, the man who has found life in the greatest abundance is the prime minister, the greatest worker. Work is divine. God is revealed as the great worker, and it is through work that men become like God. It is through work that man finds his life, and his life is measured by his work.

Business is a means by which men exchange usefulness. In the exchange of commodities and services both parties are benefited—both parties porfit. The more a man gives the more he receives. The abundant life is a by-product of hard work, or services given to others. To run away from work is to run away from life. To repudiate work is to commit suicide. It is through work that individuals and nations grow strong and invincible.

From the beginning of our history down to a few years ago the rank and file of the American citizens regarded hard work not only as a duty but also as an honor. The hard worker was a man of distinction in his community. They had little respect for a man who tried to avoid work, and had a contempt for a man, able to work, who looked to the government to support him.

They found their lives and grew strong through hard, constructive work, through constructive service to their families, their communities and to their country. They accepted it as their duty to support the government from their earnings in all of its constitutional, legitimate activities, but they scorned the idea of degrading themselves and sacrificing their independence by looking to the government to give them any special aid.

It was the proud boast of Americans up to a few years ago that the average American working man did a third more work than any other average working man in the world. It was the American ideal of work, based on the Christian theory of life that made us invincible in the past. Shall we give it up, "lean on the shovel," and revert to the destructive theory of ancient paganism?

Listen, World!

Life Begins—When You Let It.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY"—said Prof. Pitkin, thereby giving new hope and pride to thousands of discouraged mortals, who were wearily awaiting the gong.

But, for all its joyous uplift, life doesn't begin at forty . . . nor at any other set date on the calendar. For life isn't a matter of time, but of ATTITUDE. It starts or stops, not by the set watch—but by the pulse beat. You may be senile at thirty . . . or gloriously young at sixty. It all depends on your own desire. In short—

LIFE BEGINS — WHEN WE LET IT!

"But," you say, "everyone wants to stay young."

You're wrong, stranger. Everyone SAYS they wish to stay young. But that isn't their real desire . . . their heart's hidden wish.

ACTUALLY MOST OF US VOTE TO BE OLD.

We don't believe this or admit this—even to ourselves. We're sure we want to be young. But when it comes to working at the job—

WE VOTE FOR AGE.

We're not aware that we're voting for age. We think we are simply voting for safety and security . . . for a cautious, conservative plan of life. But real youth . . . growing eager youth . . . is never "safe and secure . . . cautious and conservative." These qualities come, only when the mind has lost its vivid imagination, its driving curiosity, its urgent hunger for experiment and adventure . . . when the blood has thinned and cooled . . . when the house slippers and easy chair call louder than the open trail.

Life begins — WHEN YOU WANT TO GO-GETTEM!

Death begins — WHEN YOU WANT TO PLAY SAFE!

Dr. David Seabury drives this point home in his latest book, recently discussed—"Adventures In Self-Discovery."

"Life," he cries, "begins for anyone when that individual refuses to be the victim of any DELIMITING experience: disease, accident, poverty, FAMILY PRESSURE, marriage dilemma, neglect. Whatever the curse, if you will not take it, nor accept the role fate seems to offer, you can never become a mental cripple and NOTHING CAN HOLD YOU BACK."

IN SHORT, YOU CAN START BEING YOUNG THE MOMENT YOU CHOOSE TO BE AND ARE WILLING TO WORK AT THE JOB . . . OR YOU CAN START TO BE OLD THE MINUTE YOU LET GO AND STOP FIGHTING.

REFUSE TO DIE! You would battle against death if you were critically ill with pneumonia. Yet there are many circumstances as deadly as pneumonia against which you put up no fight. COMFORT is as deadly as pneumonia . . . ages and extinguishes you as surely. SECURITY is as deadly. Nothing ages or destroys a man more quickly than Being Safe. SUCCESS is a yawning grave—if you yield to it.

DECIDE TO LIVE! Keep yourself by doubt and discipline . . . by experiment and adventure. LIFE BEGINS WHEN YOU HAVE THE NERVE TO LET IT!

(Copyright, 1938.)

With None to Mourn.

The historic old Tombs prison and criminal courts building in New York are to be razed and on their site will be a splendid skyscraper. There will be nobody to mourn their passing.

These old quarters truly were antiquated and passe. The Tombs has been called not inappropriately a breeding place for crime rather than a curer of it.

For a century the Tombs has been the scene of thrilling escapes and or daring exploits by guards. Murders and other crimes have gone on within the walls. The structure is a dismal one, built, of course, according to the penal ideas prevailing in 1838, but not now held sound.—Ohio State Journal.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Meditation on Kindness.

What is life anyway, but this,
The kindness we can do,
The love and joy that we can give
To help in passing through

The winding ways of living? What
Would any living mean
Without the gentle heart to place
Its treasure in between

The bitter hours, the tears and pain?
The sun of kindness glows
At last, a halo and the height
Of all that living knows.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I wanted to buy a red carnation this morning but as the florist fitted it into my lapel he said, "No charge, sir—courtesy of the house."

That was good business. From now on I'm going to buy all my flowers there. I don't buy many flowers, but those I do will come from him.

I like carnations, especially deep red ones. They are the only ornamentation I can wear. Sometimes I try to fold a handkerchief into my breast pocket so the corners show, but after a few minutes the jitters get me and I crush it out of sight. I'm not the tpye. It makes me feel too much like a square-rigger under full sail.

Nor can I wear a ring, or a tie-pin, or any of the trappings which most men seem able to fit easily into their scheme of dress. On me a ring is like a missing tooth. That goes for the tie-pin, and the handkerchief, and the rest. And so I yield them and all the others, the jewelled cigaret lighter and the fancy cases, to those of my fellow men who know how to use them. I do not. The boutonniere remains my only nod to foppery. I just can't seem to take to any other adornments.

* * *

BUT I do like a boutonniere. I think a fresh cut carnation has an invigorating effect on a man. It tones him up, like a new shoeshine, and makes him carry himself better. It squares his shoulders and lends his gait a sureness that is very pleasant while it lasts. I suppose you'd call this confidence. It certainly keeps your chin on an even keel when things get rough.

The lapel flower is very popular in New York. Some prefer a rose, but a majority cling to the carnation and the cornflower. George Jean Nathan, the critic, likes carnations, preferably red. Ned Stephenson, Broadway man of many trades and talents, insists on white, whether day or evening. George M. Cohan, the Yankee Doodle Kid; Jimmy Walker, the ex-boy mayor; Sleepy Jim Crowley, Fordham football coach; S. Gregory Taylor, the hotel impresario; even gangling Sinclair Lewis, the author, all have their favorite florists where they pause some time during each day for a new-cut blossom for the lapel.

For women I think the gardenia is the loveliest of all flowers—that and its sister blossoms, the cape jessamine and the camellia. There is a fragrance to these flowers that haunts you. I love to see women wear them in their hair, especially the gardenias.

* * *

GARDENIAS in New York usually cost a dollar, but they are gorgeous. Orchids I have never cared for. Carnations are usually a dime. The chrysanthemums here are marvelous to behold, but I do not especially care for them in vases. It seems to me they belong only at football games. Then they look swell.

New York buys 20 carloads of cut flowers a day, and they are brought in from the gardens of Long Island, the south, and California. Once I saw a dancer with a beautiful strange flower in her hair, and someone told me it was a red hibiscus. I never forgot it. I think it is the only hibiscus I ever saw.

I don't know what started me on flowers. Maybe it's because the one I have is sort of droopy. It's a little black around the edges, and mussed. Guess I'd better go out now and spend a dime.

A Farmer's Diary

Riding Horseback.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I ALWAYS have enjoyed to ride a horse. To sit on the back of a noble animal, in a cushioned saddle, with easy stirrups and ride swiftly away across the countryside, would be a pleasant dream, if nothing more. I like to look beneath and see the ground move backward, swiftly, like a rapid-flowing river. I thrill to the rhythmic hoof beats pounding over solid earth, clottering over stony ways, galloping lightly across softer, grassier ground. There is thunder and power there; daintiness and proud high stepping; gentle strength and responsiveness of gait.

As a little child, my father put me on the leader of his large draft team and told me to hold tight to the hames. My little legs stuck straight out across the animal's broad back, where the backbone was not even visible. I grew to love the smell of a horse's coat, the colossal strides of his mighty feet, the plop, plop, of his sinking steps in soft, loose earth. I felt his back move upward whenever the plough struck a tough spot and I tilted forward, and clung to the harness.

When I grew older, horseback riding was my means of transportation, and I hoped for nothing better. It was great to sit upon the warm, smooth back of a trotting horse, and hug his flexing flanks with my knees. If I wanted speed my bony knees would bow heavily across his ribs, and he understood.

When evening came, and the horses were fed and watered, it became my job to drive them to the pasture. I would jump upon the liveliest and without a bridle, holding whip in hand, would drive the four horses at a gallop for half a mile across the stony, hilly, Pennsylvania fields. At that time I often thought if given the chance, I might have ridden Gunpowder honorably to his Sleepy Hollow home, or saved the tail of Tam O'Shanter's witch-pursued mare. Not so now. Yet still I love a horse.

SEEKS SHIFT IN MARRIAGE LAWS

O. S. U. Dean Would Abolish Common Law Ties, Require Medical Examinations.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—The Ohio legislature will be asked next January to revise drastically existing marriage and divorce laws, Dean H. W. Arant of Ohio State university law school has announced.

Abolition of common law marriages will be asked. Other recommendations, Dean Arant said, will include:

Proof of physical fitness by both men and women before marriage, including tests for venereal disease, epilepsy and mental defects; an advance of two years in the age of consent, making it 20 for men and 18 for women; presentation of divorce decrees by persons applying for licenses to remarry; increases or decreases in alimony payments as a man's income fluctuates; interlocutory divorce decrees remaining in effect six months before becoming final.

All of the suggested revisions, Dean Arant pointed out, are designed to make "marriages more permanent."

NEW HOME FOR PURGED JEWS?

Publication Says Movement Started to Buy Mexico's California for Haven.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The Staten Island Advance, in a copyrighted story, said that an organization of American Jews has been formed to purchase lower California, Mexico, as a permanent refuge for the Jews of the world.

The story said that many leading Jews were interested in the proposed plan including Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau. Also interested in the project, the story said, are Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the International Refugee committee and James G. McDonald, former League of Nations high commissioner for refugees from Germany. The Advance said:

"Working quietly and without publicity, a group of influential Jews in New York City is laboring towards a new goal and a new hope for persecuted brethren in central Europe.

"That goal is a new homeland—a Jewish nation, to be on the North American continent. To be specific, in lower California—that narrow Peninsula from Tia Juana on the north to Cape St. Lucas at its southern tip, 800 miles in length and varying in width from 50 to 120 miles. This sparsely inhabited tongue of land has an area of about 58,000 square miles with a shore line of more than 2,000 miles and a population little more than one-half of Staten Island's 176,000."

Resemblance To Corrigan Irking To Ohio Grocer

PORTSMOUTH — (INS) — Groceryman George Roberts is a dead ringer for Doug Corrigan, the wrong way trans-Atlantic flyer, and the resemblance has become somewhat irksome because people are always pointing him out.

However, in a Pittsburgh, Pa., restaurant recently, Roberts profited at the expense of Corrigan. The head waiter approached Roberts and said "you are Corrigan, aren't you?"

Roberts denied the insinuation. The head waiter remained adamant and insisted the meals be on "the house." So Roberts didn't press the point further.

EXPENSIVE RIDE

Army Mechanic Blamed for $65,000 Plane Loss.

HONOLULU, T. H. — (U.P.) — A bill for $65,000 damages is facing Ben Kleigelman for his amazing theft of an army bomber which he cracked up in a pineapple patch five miles from Luke field.

The Brooklyn mechanic, private first class, whose sudden decision to try a hop in an $85,000 Douglas B-18 bomber created more furore in five minutes than two weeks of aerial war games, has not been presented the bill, but under one form of army procedure which was being discussed as part of his discipline Fleigelman would be billed for damage inflicted to army property.

The plane was damaged to the extent of $65,000 which the army would help him obtain by raising his rank as high as possible. In this case Fleigelman would be "promoted" to the rank of a sergeant.

On a sergeant's pay, army officials estimated it would take Fleigelman, who is now 35, the remainder of his life-expectancy to get free of debt.

SENIOR HI-Y'S MOTHER-SON DINNER DEC. 14

Sea Scout Troop to Sponsor 'Sailor Swing' Tomorrow; Other School News.

The Senior Hi-Y club of Senior high school will hold its annual mother and son banquet Dec. 14 in the high school cafeteria, officials of the club announced today.

The event is scheduled for 6:15 p. m.

Arrangements for the banquet are in charge of a general committee made up of Donald Finefrock, chairman, Robert Roth, and Richard McMullen. Thomas Scott and Ed Umbarger comprise the program committee. H. D. Bishop is adviser of the group.

Plans Art Gallery.

First steps to start an art gallery at Senior high school are being taken by the art classes in conjunction with their study of modern art.

The gallery will be located in the art room and will include the works of living American artists, Miss Marjorie Campbell, art instructor, announced. The department plans to buy two large colored prints a month, and when received will be placed in the art room.

* * *

Officers of the orchestra at John Simpson Junior high school were announced today by officials at the school. Those chosen were Jean Kelly, president; Marilee Sword, secretary; Richard Jenkins, treasurer, and Helen Hagelbarger, librarian.

A string trio and quartet has been formed in the organization. The trio is comprised of Eloise Harbaugh, violin; Patricia Hieber, cello, and Jean Kelly, piano, while the quartet includes Gloria Disbennet and Parker Long, violins; Marilee Sword, viola, and Helen Hagelbarger, cello. There are 52 students in the orchestra.

The Emblem club of the Girls' Athletic association at John Simpson Junior high school will hold its annual party and dance at the school Dec. 16. Arrangements for the affair are in charge of a committee made up of Helen Webber, chairman, Kathryn Musille, Clara Ivanics, Doris Meeker and Etabel Hunter.

130 MILLIONS

U. S. Census Bureau Estimates Population for Nations.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The census bureau has estimated officially the population of continental United States exceeded 130,000,000.

Based on birth and death statistics for the first half of 1938, the bureau figured 130,215,000 persons lived in this country July 1.

This number did not include an estimated 62,700 in Alaska, 405,000 in Hawaii, 1,806,000 in Puerto Rico, 52,800 in the Panama Canal zone, 22,000 in the Virgin Islands, 22,700 in Guam and 11,700 in Samoa.

Hunter Shoots Female Deer But He's Forgiven.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — George W. Borin of Bella Vista shot a doe while hunting deer near Ingot. Although it's against the law to slay the females, the State Fish and Game Commission did not prosecute the hunter. Charles R. Love, game warden, said the doe had "as beautiful a pair of forked horns as ever grew on a buck."

Romantic Comedy.

Dick Powell and Olivia DeHavilland are co-starred in the romantic comedy "Hard to Get" playing at the Ohio theater. The plot centers about Dick's efforts as a young business man to interest capital in financing a chain of service station-auto camps across the country. As a spoiled heiress, Olivia lends the love interest.

ANNA GETS HER HATCHET BACK

Grand Jury Refuses to Indict for Attack on Officer.

LOS ANGELES — (U.P.) — Mrs. Anna Laura Barnett had her hatchet back today.

It was returned after a federal grand jury refused to indict Mrs. Barnett and her daughter, Mrs. Maxine Sturgis, on charges of resisting government officers who evicted them from their luxurious home.

Mrs. Barnett was accused of throwing the hatchet at a deputy marshal as officers forcibly dispossessed her recently from the mansion of the late Creek Indian millionaire, Jackson Barnett. The courts ruled that her marriage to Barnett was illegal, and that she must return all his property to the department of Indian affairs.

NAZIS RECALL GERMAN ENVOY TO WASHINGTON

Order Interpreted as Meaning Germans Fail to Believe Resentment Reports.

"Apparently, he is being recalled for exactly the same reason that Ambassador Wilson has been called home," an embassy official stated.

Dieckhoff was in retirement today and would make no statement. Today's instructions from Berlin were the first official word he had received since Wilson's recall was announced and President Roosevelt condemned developments in Germany in strong language in a White House press statement.

Wilson to Return In Month, He Says.

LE HAVRE, France — (INS) — Hugh R. Wilson, United States ambassador to German, flatly announced today that he will return to Berlin in a month.

His announcement was made as he sailed for New York on the liner Manhattan.

Denying that his departure from Germany amounted to a breach of diplomatic relations, Wilson said:

"I am definitely returning to Germany. I shall be in the United States for a month, then go back to Berlin."

"I am not a bit surprised," he said when informed that German Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff had been summoned to Berlin from Washington. "I was expecting it." He would make no other comment.

Wilson made it clear that he would give President Roosevelt a thorough-going report on Nazi action against Jews, Catholics, and some other groups.

Asked if he would have anything to say to the president that he could not say to the reporters, the ambassador commented:

"With Mr. Roosevelt I'll have a lot to say."

Proposes Extension For Visiting Jews.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt told a press conference today that on humanitarian grounds he had proposed a six-months extension for between 12,000 and 15,000 German and Austrian refugees who are in the United States on visitors' permits.

The president said unless this extension were granted the permits of this large group would be cancelled if the refugees were not back in their native land by the end of the year.

He has informed Secretary of Labor Perkins, he said, that it would be a cruel and inhuman thing to compel these persons to go back to Germany and face possible mistreatment in concentration camps or other persecution.

The president smiled but had no comment on the summoning home of Hans Dieckhoff, German ambassador to Washington, to report on the "queer attitude" of the president and other American authorities on domestic affairs in Germany.

As for the refugees here on temporary visitors' permits, Mr. Roosevelt said he would present the facts to congress and if congress took no action the refugees would be allowed to stay in this country.

Willard

ENTERTAINS 26

A group of 26 friends were entertained at a turkey dinner by Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Steiner and Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Ewing at the Miller home in Maplewood, Tuesday evening.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums were used for table decorations and about the rooms at the Steiner home where the group went for cards following the dinner.

William G. Koder, 42, of Massillon, was arrested for having in his possession a hen pheasant. His arraignment is scheduled for Saturday.

RURAL RICHLAND THRILLS AUTHOR

Bromfields' Hunt for Farm Turns Into Exploration Tour of County.

On many of the roads, at certain old landmarks, the author would exclaim, delightedly: "Now I know just where I am—I've been here many time and it hasn't changed a bit." And then he would immediately get lost again by following a little-used road up over a hill or through the woods.

"This," he said in all sincerity, "is the most beautiful country in the world. No where in rural England or France is the countryside more beautiful than the hill country of Richland county."

Mrs. Bromfield shared his enthusiasm and was all for buying the first farm at which they stopped.

Hawkins stopped at a Mansfield store just before leaving for the country and bought a short, heavy jacket. "You can't be a farmer without a reefer," he said.

The Bromfields will spend considerable time in Mansfield in the next few weeks, looking for the "dream farm" that was planned during Bromfield's 14 years in France.

On Dec. 1 he will go to New York City for three weeks in which time he will deliver two lectures at Columbia university and raise funds for continuing the work of evacuating wounded American soldiers who are in the International brigade in Spain.

Bromfield is chairman of the committee in charge of this work, and 800 men have already been returned to America. More than 1,000 still remain, and one of the first thoughts on his return to this country was to raise approximately $200,000 by private subscriptions for this purpose.

HONOR MEMBER

BUCYRUS — Honoring a half century of service, Bucyrus Knights of Pythias entertained with a banquet Wednesday night for R. W. Lamb, who recently completed his 50th year as keeper of records and seals for Demas lodge.

In addition to the guest of honor, six members who have been associated with the order for 50 or more years, were given recognition by W. H. C. Wurtemberger, who served as toastmaster.

Speakers were J. R. Hopley, W. A. Blicke and F. J. Barth.

Covers were placed for 67 at the banquet including a number from out of the city.

HILL NAMED TO HEAD GALION'S SCOUT COUNCIL

Committee Told $500 Needed to Fill Quota to Carry Out Program.

GALION—O. E. Hill was re-elected president of the Galion Boy Scout council at a meeting Thursday evening at the Senior high school.

Other officers elected were: first vice president, Ralph Cohen; second vice president, T. R. Dougherty; secretary, Walter Goshorn; commissioner, Jack Gay; assistant commissioner, Roger Godfrey, and treasurer, Clarence Myers.

According to a report of the finance committee, the Boy Scout movement here needs $500 in order to meet the quota to carry on the work.

A number of activities were reported by the civic service committee, of which T. R. Dougherty is chairman. During the past weekend, the camp committee reported a trip to Camp Avery Hand east of Mansfield.

Rev. W. N. Robertson who is chairman of the Court of Honor, reported plans for a Court of Honor to be held within the next few weeks.

The troop organizing committee reported excellent progress in Cub Pack activities in Galion. Training for this particular phase of Boy Scout work is now in progress in the form of a school at the Junior high building.

C. E. GROUPS MEET

GALION — Folk games were taught to a group of young people of the First Reformed church here, Thursday evening, by Harry Carpenter, Richard Rensch, Rita Corwin and Victor Harmen, all of Mt. Gilead.

There were 40 young people and guests present. Those present included the Christian Endeavor societies of the local church and other groups.

Following the teaching of the games, there was a supper served by Harold Zimmerman, Ruby Myers and Nellie Vossers of the Galion group.

LOUISE M'CULLOUGH WED TO DAVID RUSSELL AT GREENWICH

GREENWICH — Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McCullough announce the marriage of their daughter, Louise, to David Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Russell of Ruggles. The wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 16. Rev. Kenneth Ashman performed the ceremony, using the single ring service, before an altar formed by baskets of pink and white carnations and fall flowers.

The bride was charming in a lovely royal blue velvet gown and wore a beautiful corsage of white baby chrysanthemums.

The bridal pair was attended by one of the bride's school friends, Miss Winifred Bixler, and Dean McCullough, only brother of the bride.

The maid of honor was attired in a blue silk crepe gown with a corsage of yellow baby chrysanthemums. As the bride's sister, Ruth, played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" and "The Bridal March" by Lohengrin, the bridal party, composed of the maid of honor, the bride's father, who gave the bride away, and the bride, appeared, and proceeded to the altar where they were met by the bridegroom and his best man, Dean McCullough.

A reception for the bride and groom followed immediately after the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell left at once on a short wedding trip that will extend through the southern states, after which they will be at home to their friends at Ruggles.

For traveling, the bride chose a wine crepe trimmed in satin with black and wine accessories. Mrs. Russell is a graduate of Greenwich high school and Mansfield Business college. Since graduation she has held a position with the Kitchen Katch-All corporation, of Greenwich.

Mr. Russell is a graduate from Ruggles high school.

LITIGATION ENDS

Court Dismisses Petition to Vacate Tax Judgment.

Litigation over a filling station property at Fifth and Main streets which has been pending in common pleas court for nearly two years, apparently was ended today with the dismissal by the court of a petition to vacate a tax foreclosure judgment on the property.

Filed last March after the property had been sold at sheriff's auction, the suit was dismissed on the grounds that Mrs. Madella Wiedenmayer of Newark, N. J., the former owner, had failed to file an amended petition within the required 30-day period.

Mrs. Wiedenmayer sought to recover the property and to be permitted to pay the delinquent taxes on it. Her case was against County Treasurer John E. Kolb who had obtained the judgment.

The lot is owned now by the Fair Price Service Stations, Inc., which purchased it at sheriff's auction.

$3,238 PLEDGED

ASHLAND — Returns in Ashland's tenth annual Community Chest drive were coming in to chest headquarters slowly at the close of the second day of the drive. After making a larger collection the first day of the drive than in the previous year, the second day's pledges dropped below that for the same period of time in 1937.

At closing time Wednesday night a report from chest headquarters showed that $3,142 had been pledged to the Fund after two days of campaigning. Last year the first two days of the drive netted $3,238.

CASE SETTLED

BUCYRUS — The Crawford county common pleas court docket was cleared Thursday of the oldest case on record, that of P. J. Foltz against the New Washington board of education, filed 13 years ago. The case was settled when the New Washington board was ordered to pay $400 to Foltz, former superintendent of the New Washington schools, who asked judgment of $2,688 for alleged failure to fulfill a contract. Foltz charged that he was discharged two years after signing a three-year contract with the New Washington board.

CIO Prepares to Elect Lewis Again to Presidency

FORD BOYCOTT PROPOSED BY UNION ENVOYS

Charge Company 'Unfair' In Labor Practices; Endorse Roosevelt Program.

BULLETIN

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—John L. Lewis was elected first president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations today, following a 28-minute tumultuous demonstration by 500 delegates representing some 3,800,000 workers in more than 40 national and international unions.

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH — The Congress of Industrial Organizations, primed with plans for economic boycott and political action, appeared ready to put a tumultuous climax to its historic convention today with the election of John L. Lewis as its first president.

Delegates who scoffed at reports the 58-year-old militant labor leader might step aside to let the honors of the first CIO presidency fall to his closest lieutenant, Philip Murray, said it was imperative the new industrial union movement start its first year with Lewis in command.

If the pre-election expectations are fulfilled, the two vice presidencies will go to Murray and Sidney Hillman.

Murray is vice president of the the United Mine Workers and chairman of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee. Hillman long has headed the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union, and under CIO, has directed the organizing drive in the textile industry.

Boycott Threatened.

A highly demonstrative convention grinding out a policy program for the now permanently organized CIO, highlighted yesterday's session with passage of a resolution threatening boycott action against the Ford Motor company, the only major motor car concern in the United States which has not signed a collective bargaining agreement with CIO's United Auto Workers Union.

Other policy making developments included the adoption of resolutions:

Endorsing the "humanitarian and social program" of President Roosevelt.

Calling for vigorous participation by organized labor in the political life of the nation.

Proposing to lift the Social Security old age insurance tax from proposing increase of benefits paid for old age insurance and unemployment compensation.

Proposing a permanent independent federal bureau to investigate instances of employers conspiring with public officials against organized labor.

The resolution against the Ford company directed the CIO union delegates to "treat Ford products as unfair" if the Ford Motor company "persists in its refusal to bargain collectively with the U. A. W."

Admits Stabbing Woman, Stuffing Corpse In Closet

CHICAGO — (INS) — Emerging from a two-day alcoholic stupor, a bedraggled factory worker told police today how he had stabbed comely Ella Pehrson, 35, to death and stuffed her nude body in a closet.

The confessed criminal is Joseph Kadlecek, 27, who said:

"She came up to my room to sell me some shaving cream and stuff that I bought from her every week. I was drunk. I grabbed her and she tried to fight me off. I got hold of a butcher knife and stabbed her. I don't know how many times. Then I tore off her clothes. I hid her in the closet and threw the clothes in on top."

The body, bearing five knife wounds was found yesterday morning. Kadlecek was captured when he appeared later in the day at a bank's safe deposit vault where he had made an appointment with his brother to borrow some money.

Police had trailed the brother there without his knowledge.

Brady Gang's 'Trigger Man' Dies In Chair

Up and Down THE STREET

Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of First Presbyterian church, wants it known over town that he does not collect telephone books. He picks one up practically everytime he stops in a downtown store to telephone, but after carrying it around town for awhile, it begins to dawn on him that he's lugging a telephone book again, and he always returns it. So if you see him walk out of the store apparently thefting the phone directory, don't call the officer. He'll bring it back.

With marks of lipstick and grease paint still on his mouth and face, Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman got more than his share of joshing at the county jail today. The husky officer blushingly admitted he became a "bride" last night at Bellville, his home town. But it was all in fun, he said, explaining that he was "made up" for the bride's role in a womanless wedding enacted in the Bellville school auditorium. And he has to go through a second performance tonight, with Pete Pearl, who is about half Freeman's size, as the groom.

Mansfield High's Tygers may not be at the top of the heap, but Richland county football teams are still winning themselves fame. In a series of outstanding scholastic football games in the state, the Cleveland Plain Dealer earlier in the week carried a picture of the high-scoring Madison Rams and today printed a picture of the unbeaten Shelby Whippets.

Flowers in the spring aren't half as interesting as flowers in the late fall, according to Glenn Rohleder, principal of Hedges school. There is a spirea bush in his back yard at 383 Ruth avenue, that is in bloom again. Not only does it have a few white blooms, but there are buds along the stems and a few green leaves. The bush probably is being deceived by the weather that spring is here.

Forty youngsters of the Friendly House kindergarten visited a turkey farm near Mansfield yesterday and some of them saw a real, live "gobbler" for the first time and were properly impressed. The children were in charge of Mrs. Russell Gimbel of the Friendly House staff and the trip was one of several that have been planned in connection with reading and study courses for the small folks.

MAPS HEARING

Senate Group to Open Study on 'Incentive Taxation.'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The special senate committee named to investigate the workings of profit sharing in industry announced today that "incentive taxation" would be stressed at public hearings opening here Monday.

A statement from Senators Herring (D., Iowa) and Vandenberg (R., Mich.), committee members, said their "purpose is to determine whether it is not possible and practical to encourage social-minded practices in commerce and industry instead of always, as heretofore, using the taxing power to punish, or prohibit, or restrain."

AIRLINER SPILLS IN INDIANAPOLIS

Steward Injured, Others Escape As Plane Noses Over.

INDIANAPOLIS — (INS) — An Eastern Airlines passenger plane, bound from Miami, Fla., to Chicago, turned over on its nose in taking off from the Indianapolis Municipal airport today.

William Siegmann, of New York, a steward, suffered slight leg injuries but no one else was hurt.

The heavy plane overshot the concrete runway and was halted abruptly when its wheels stuck in the mud.

The passengers proceeded to Chicago by train. They included Mrs. C. W. Monroe, of Havana, Cuba.

CAR TURNS OVER

Mansfielder Escapes Injury In Crash East of Crestline.

Samuel Hoover, 65 Vennum avenue, escaped injuries at 10:30 a. m. today when his car turned over on its side after skidding on the wet pavement, two miles east of Crestline on route 30N.

According to Corporal J. E. Ruch of the state highway patrol, Hoover was going to Crestline when the accident occurred. He was alone in the car.

SEES NEED FOR WIDER ROADS

Road Authority Predicts Auto Traffic to Be Doubled in U. S. by 1960.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—An authority on roads and highways predicted today automobile traffic "will be approximately doubled by 1960."

Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the U. S. bureau of public roads, told the American automobile association "it would seem that construction of divided multiple-lane highways must proceed during the next 22 years, in the country as a whole, at an average rate in excess of 1,000 miles per year."

MacDonald's conclusions were based on incomplete reports from a survey of highways now under way in 46 states.

"Our investigations," he said, "show rural pavements as they are constructed today should have a useful life greater than 30 years, so that pavements we now build should still have years of service left in them in 1960.

"Since that is true we must try to anticipate the volume and other conditions of the 1960 traffic and make ample provision to meet those conditions in our present planning."

The association's 36th annual meeting opened today after two days of preliminary meetings. It ends tomorrow.

In a message to Thomas P. Henry, A. A. A. president, President Roosevelt termed the automobile "a definite part of our daily life" and said the promotion of highway safety "must always be our primary consideration.

Henry said in an interview that the association plans a nation-wide drive against "legalized banditry" as represented by fee-splitting" traffic officers working through "speed traps."

AUTO CLUBBERS DINE TONIGHT

200 Expected at Annual Meeting; Officers to Be Named.

The annual dinner meeting of the Richland County Auto club will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel this evening, with more than 200 in attendance. Tickets have been sold to members from all parts of the county.

The annual report will be given by Frank Beverstock, secretary, and nine directors will be elected. Carl H. Stander, president, will preside, and John Pierce will serve as toastmaster.

A floor show after the business session will be provided by the Gus Sun theatrical booking agency.

TRADE PACT GIVES BRITISHERS CHEAPER SHOES, REFRIGERATORS

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Mrs. John Bull derived the most satisfaction today from the Anglo-American trade agreement.

The pact covered goods worth $100,000,000. But that's nothing to her. The big point is that American silk stocking now costing more than 60 cents a pair will cost less.

Politicians talked about "hands across the sea," but British housewives talked about cheaper American shoes, handbags, lipsticks, refrigerators, canned fruit and electric sweepers.

All those things are luxuries over here and formerly were available only to the few who have what Britishers call "posh" — "fancy" incomes.

British newspapers hailed it "a woman's trade agreement" and declared that now millions of girls both young and old, who, incidentally, outnumber the men in Britain, could have those things they have wanted.

Not only that but, as one newspaper pointed out, thousands of women and girls employed in Lancashire's vast cotton and woolen textile trades will have more money to spend on the cheaper luxuries —assuming that they get more work because of more sales since the United States cut tariffs on the products they make.

It was not all joy, however, that greeted signature of the Anglo-American treaty.

The isolationist Express opposed putting the United States on a par with Britain's dominions and colonies in trade matters. The paper believed the United States should rank third with British home producers first and the colonies and dominions second.

The Daily Mail called the pact "a magnificent achievement" which "will inevitably draw the English-speaking peoples closer together."

WOUNDED FIXING GUN

COLUMBUS —(INS)— A broken mechanism on a shotgun he was trying to fix was blamed today for the critical condition of Clarence Craig, 23, of nearby Galloway, who was in Mt. Carmel hospital with the left side of his face partially shot away.

NO CUT HERE

Wierman Expects No Slash in Highway Force.

A proposal of Gov. Davey for a lay-off of several hundred state highway workers probably will not affect Richland county's staff of 27 employes, Boyd Wierman, resident highway engineer, said today.

"Our staff in the county is the smallest in months, and I doubt if the order will result in any lay-offs here," he asserted.

The proposed dismissal of workers was disclosed by Mrs. Myrna Smith, secretary to Gov. Davey, who said it would be an economy move.

She added that it had no connection with reports that the governor planned a "purge" of state employes who worked for Charles Sawyer for governor in the recent campaign.

PAYS WITH LIFE FOR MURDER OF INDIANA OFFICER

Swift Execution Takes Last of Notorious Outlaw Band as Appeals Fail.

(By Associated Press)

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind.—The last gangster of the Al Brady mob of midwestern killers, once described as the worst in the country, died in a swift and efficient federal execution here today.

Little red-haired James Dalhover of Madison, 32-year-old gunman for the gang, paid in state prison's electric chair for the slaying of Paul V. Minneman, Logansport state policeman shot after the $2,500 Goodland state bank robbery May 25, 1937.

His death was as quick but more quiet than those of his fellow mobmen, Alfred Brady and Clarence Lee Shaffer, jr. of Indianapolis, shot by federal agents when they captured Dalhover in Bangor, Me., Oct. 12, 1937.

In nine brief minutes just after midnight, the condemned man was hustled from the death cell between two guards, strapped in the chair and electrocuted.

'Most Vicious' Gang.

That ended the career of a gang once termed by J. Edgar Hoover, federal bureau of investigation chief, the "most vicious" in the United States. Brady and his henchmen boasted they would "make John Dillinger look like a piker." They were blamed for three killings.

A triangle-shaped black mask hid Dalhover's face as he was brought into a death chamber still as a morgue and walked, with stiff legs and heavy feet, the 13 steps to the chair. He wore an old brown shirt and black pants.

Less than an hour and a half before, Dalhover had lost his last fight for life. In a special night session of federal court at Hammond, Judge Thomas W. Wlick of South Bend turned down a petition to get him a new hearing.

Dalhover gave up farming and bootlegging in the southern Indiana hills three years ago to join the gang in looting banks, jewelry stores, groceries and theaters of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Besides Minneman, Dalhover confessed to Indiana State Detective Meredith Stewart the trio killed Edward Linsey, Piqua, O., grocery clerk, and Indianapolis Police Sgt. Richard Rivers.

DAVEY GETS HAHN PLEA

COLUMBUS — Attorneys for Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, hoping to save her from death in the electric chair December 7, awaited an answer today from Gov. Martin L. Davey to their application for a clemency hearing.

2 DEAD, 5 HURT

Navy Fliers Killed as Bomber Crashes Into Boathouse.

HONOLULU — (AP) — Two navy fliers were killed and five others injured last night when one of the VP-10 squadron bombers which pioneered the navy's mass flights across the Pacific crashed into a boathouse at the Pearl Harbor fleet air base during an attempted landing.

Killed were Lieutenant, junior grade, P. H. Ashworth, 30, Wenham, Mass., and Aviation Cadet J. W. Beam of Bardstown, Ky.

The plane, with seven other bombers, was practicing takeoffs and landings on floodlighted, calm Pearl Harbor channel.

The bomber was ferried here Jan. 10, 1935, in the navy's second mass flight from San Diego, Calif., to Pearl Harbor navy base here.

REGINA, Sask. — (Canadian Press)—Pilot D. Imrie and Co-pilot J. Hill were killed early today when their westbound trans-Canada Airlines mail plane crashed a few miles west of here.

MRS. SCHRAM, 47, TAKEN BY DEATH

Mansfield Resident For 31 Years To Be Buried Sunday.

Mrs. Pauline Schram, 47, of 376 Fourth avenue, died at her home today after an illness of two years. Born in Jugoslavia, Mrs. Schram came to Mansfield 31 years ago.

Survivors include her husband, John; two step-brothers, Joe and John Kurry, of Mansfield, and seven step-sisters, Mrs. Paul Straka and Mrs. John Hadamschtin of Crestline and Mrs. Martin Bocka, Mrs. John Kurry, Mrs. Leo Kashmerski, Mrs. Emil Siracki and Mrs. Marian Lehman of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at the Christian Apostolic church, First and Mulberry streets, at 2 p. m. Sunday, with burial in the Lantz cemetery. The body will remain at the home until the time of services.

FAIR ENOUGH!

So Mussolini Calls Us A Nation of Gangsters? We Got Idea From Italy

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Mussolini has less right than anybody else in the world except Hitler to point the finger of scorn at the United States as a land of gangsters.

In his book "Personal History" Jimmy Sheean spoke of being in Venice in the very early days of Fascism, living in the premises of a seedy old nobleman who ran a little gambling joint and paid tribute to a gang of young extortionists whom he called Fascisti. The name was meaningless to a stranger then, but the old gambler explained that the Fascisti were young hoodlums who compelled merchants and others to kick in, failing which they would be beaten or killed and their property destroyed.

* * *

After that the Fascisti came along to grab control of local governments, then the national government, and presently to employ on behalf of the Italian nation the same psychology and methods—in brief, gangsterism—toward other countries.

Now, to be sure, the extortion system is familiar to Americans. Hoodlums prey on shippers, merchants and others in collusion with minor politicians, and sometimes with the police, and destroy their property, sometimes even kill them, if they do not come through.

But Mussolini didn't get the idea from our gangsters, or did they get their idea from him. He and our gangsters got it from Sicily and Naples, where gangsterism, under other names, was a robust institution along toward the end of the last century.

* * *

The mafia was a Sicilian organization which routed the regular police and grew so strong that it had the force of government. The poor common people submitted to the mafia and placed themselves under its protection, and the more aggressive spirits became professional brigands, assassins and extortioners. Travel was dangerous, and the murder rate rose as high as 27 per 100,000. On our land of gangsters a rate of 5 per 100,000 is considered very deplorable, and that includes non-negligent manslaughter as well.

The Sicilian mafia had a code whereby persons who had been wronged, even unto death, considered it ignoble to tell the police authorities, knowing that their comrades would avenge them. J. Edgar Hoover calls this the rat code, but it is really the mafia code, imported from Sicily We did have our close-mouthed Hatfields and McCoys, but they were landlocked mountaineers and family feudists, not brigands and extortioners.

* * *

About 1890, in New Orleans, the mafia got so bad that a citizens' committee broke open the jail and lynched eleven of them for murdering David Hennessy, the chief of police, who had interfered with their gang. This caused international trouble, and this country had to pay Italy $25,000.

Hundreds of thousands of Sicilians were fleeing to the United States to escape the terrible poverty and ignorance in which they were held at home. Most of them were good, hard-working people, but naturally a certain proportion of mafia terrorists came, too. The innocent immigrants, by training and tradition, were afraid to trust the police, so the mafia murdered and extorted at will. For a long time they confined their operations to their own frightened countrymen. Later they branched out, and native Americans of various racial strains extended the system to the general public.

* * *

We received a branch establishment of the camorra of Naples in the same way about the same time. The camorra began as a secret organization in prison, and as the criminals got out they carried on, enlarging their scope. They murdered, robbed, shook down brothel keepers and prostitutes, ran lotteries, terrorized elections, controlled public officials and got so bad that in 1890 the Italian crown suspended the crooked local government of Naples and substituted a royal commission.

The name "gangster" is American, but we got the idea, the method, the psychology and the original cast from Mussolini's own Sicily and Naples. In fact, it has been only a few years since Mussolini himself broke up the mafia as a nuisance and disgrace to Italy. One mob smashed another, as often happens here.

All this is in the public libraries, written without passion and without challenge and merely as historical fact.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The life of a Hollywood scribbler of pieces for the papers is fraught with peril. He is forever sticking his neck out, making people mad, saying the wrong thing.

Even if it is the right thing, some people get mad. They write letters and you wonder how you can live with yourself. You wonder if the world would not be well rid of such a scurvy character. You feel like a monster. Probably you are one.

And the world is so full of a number of things to say the wrong thing about. People, of course. But things, too. Innocent, lovely-sounding things like—like the viola d'amore. Would you, or you, believe that danger lurked in casual reference to a musical instrument? No?

* * *

Recently, in happy ignorance, it was reported here that a Metro musician mastered this "practically obsolete instrument" for a movie score—but what, I inquired, would he do with the art now?

Well, now I know. People have written letters. I am informed from several sources that viola d'amore, far from being obsolete, is a favorite instrument of several people. I have learned that a celebrated artist, Mme. Alix Young Maruchess, is "internationally hailed" for her concerts with viola d'amore and viola. The same Madame Maruchess, to my present confusion, not only gives concerts but it was she who played the viola d'amore music in the movie "Romeo and Juliet."

"What do you mean—'what will he do with the art now?' Tell him he can tuck his viola d'amore under his arm and tour the world,' demands a lady in Santa Fe, N. M., more politely than some.

I am contrite. I sit here, wearing my dunce cap at a bewildered angle and I tremble. I can scarcely go on. Never again will I tangle with a viola d'more. I shall play safe—but can one play safe?

Things like this wear on the nerves. They make you feel as I expect to feel after seeing "The Son of Frankenstein." They tell me this is the horror film to end all. They tell me that Basil Rathbone will join forces with Karloff and Lugosi to squeeze the last chill from the paying customers. They tell me.

Things like this make you feel woozy. That's the way Marie Wilson feels, remember, when she sees Eddie Albert act. They tell me Marie has wooziness aplenty ahead. They tell me she's got to act with the guy whose acting makes her feel woozy. In "The Poor Nut," they tell me.

I think I feel the way Eddie Albert felt in "Brother Rat." Confused, sort of. I think—but I'm not sure—that Eddie could help me out. They tell me he's the man who introduced the double malted milk to Minneapolis. I hear—but don't ask me to prove it—that Eddie writes poetry and isn't ashamed of it. And you don't want to make anything out of it, either, in case he asks. At least, so I've been told.

You see what it does to you—to me, I mean? Today, I'd intended to strike out vigorously against such silly goings-on as are going on today. Joan Crawford carrying a muff, f'rinstance, just because it's stylish, when only the demure should carry muffs. But I'm frightened silly.

I'm scared because the same people who know about the viola d'amore might LIKE Joan Crawford to carry a muff. I mean—that is—at least—begging your pardon. . . .

Acting Human Holds Man

(ONE IN A SERIES)
By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A happy marriage cannot be a one-sided affair.

A young man who finds that his wife's heart is seemingly encased in ice, and that he himself is fated to do all the loving, isn't going to have a very happy life.

Six Ways To Lose Him, Or Her.

The girl who has a heart but won't admit it. The girl who is bent on seeming hard-boiled, who's afraid of being thought sentimental and old-fashioned, who believes that the coldly sophisticated line is the only one to adopt with men.

It may have its uses, this pose of hers. It keeps the too audacious youth at arm's length and it conveys to men of all descriptions the fact that she is nobody's easy prey.

But how about the really nice boys that she meets, the possible friends, the husbands? Surely the technique that is useful for repelling the undesirables should be scrapped when it comes to forming a real friendship, or joining in a real love.

The youth who is honestly in search of a mate may be amused for a month or so by the metallic manner and the artificial pose. But at the same time, he's on his guard. Can this charming girl really be as heartless, as cold to all human appeal, as she pretends to be? He wonders. He really longs to know. But he can't seriously talk with her. She won't allow it, she's afraid of being soft. And with him, it's a pretty vital matter, whether the girl he marries has a heart or hasn't. He decides the risk is too big to take.

It's a temptation, perhaps, if you see that a boy likes you very much, to try to tease and mystify and dazzle him. To pretend to be something that you're not, just to see what reaction you'll get from him.

Don't let love slip through your fingers just because, like all women, you have something of the actress in you. When you meet a real man, don't conceal your own reality. Don't refuse to be human.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I caught Hank's hand and spelled out a short sentence in the deaf and dumb alphabet which had been a fad of the Harrison children in their youth, and with which I am familiar.

"Right behind us!" I tapped out. "Tell Mary this way. Tell her to tell Bill. If you've understood me, spell out 'yes'."

His answer was so prompt that I was reassured about the prospect of keeping the man behind us not only in ignorance of our recognition of him, but also of limiting our conversation strictly to a discusson of the pictures.

It was Mary who began to speak in offhand fashion, leaning across Hank to address me in low tones, calculated not to disturb the people behind us.

"Did you ever see this first picture?" she asked.

"Yes, I've seen it," I said, but did not enlarge upon the statement.

"Isn't this the one—?" Bill began, then stopped as abruptly, and I saw him shoot a startled look at Hank.

I would have stopped further revelations with a decided "Hush!" but I feared that later Hank might guess the reason for my edict. And I was relieved, indeed, when from behind us came a gruff voice.

Neighbor Complains.

"Say, do you think this is a private view for your party?" it demanded. "Other people would like to hear what's going on."

I turned my head quickly.

"Oh! I'm so sorry," I said contritely. "We'll keep quiet from now on."

"That's all right," the man mumbled, evidently placated, and we settled down to endurance of the "pre-views" which preceded the beginning of the picture, which was the lesser—and older—attraction of the two rivals.

What could I do? I asked myself frantically, for because of the incidents of the forenoon, I was definitely afraid of the effect this picture might have on Hank. I thought of pleading illness and getting out of the theater, but that would mean spoiling Dicky's carefully planned treat for his niece and his older nephews. There was but one thing for me to do, I realized, and that was to "sit tight" and hope against hope that Hank would not be adversely affected by the tremendously gripping yet horrible scene in the play which had caused so much discussion when it was first shown.

The actors were so capable, and the play so beautifully written and filmed, that despite my fears I found myself yielding to the glamour and excitement which had been mine when I had first seen it. A glance at the boys and Mary showed them sitting tensely in their chairs, their faces showing the thrills which they were getting out of the scenes.

Suffer Torture.

And then, sending a chill down the spines of even hardened cinema addicts, there came the first indications that the brave army officers, captives of suave and sinister Orientals, were to suffer torture until they revealed the secret of army tactics which the leader of the savage hordes wanted.

Hank moved restlessly in his chair, and a side glance at him showed that while Mary and Bill were giving only the usual excited attention which a gripping and superlatively-acted scene calls forth, Hank was deeply disturbed. He suddenly appeared years younger than the others, and there was in his whole attitude an air of something that approached childish terror.

Care of Hair Emphasized Again

By MME. QUI VIVE

If a girl won't do anything to keep her brain mat glossy and healthy she can at least refrain from doing it injury.

Observe the home shampooer when she takes her head out from under the shower. The permanent wave has given her locks a tight curl perhaps and they snarl at her. Get waddy, in tight knots. She holds onto her scalp with one hand, rakes her hair with a comb, pulls it out by the handful. No patience at all. The hair should be divided into small strands, combed gently. Some beauty operators go at the job with fierce energy. A rebuke is coming to them.

Few women are as particular as they should be about the blandness and purity of the shampoo medium. Just any old cleanser won't do.

When a high grade cleansing agent is used there is no need of how pure the soap may be, it should be melted, so particles will not adhere to the hair shafts. When that happens there is no gloss, the permanent wave is impaired for the time being.

It is not easy to get the hair clean. There must be plenty of friction. If the lather is thick, heavy and crackling, a little hot water should be poured over it before the spray is used. There's a lot to be learned about shampooing.

Combs and brushes that are not washed frequently cause trouble. If they carry the least bit of soap they will cause tresses to fall into a state of rebellion. They'll sulk, cling to the scalp; there will be no health in them.

Too many permanents and no reconditioning treatments make hair sick a-bed. When permanents are given too frequently the hair does not respond to the coiling process. Locks should have time to relax between the hard-boiled treatments.

If the hair is oily it should be washed every week, if dry one renovating a fortnight will do. Every night, if the finger wave permits, surface dust should be removed by brushing. The woman who is thinking of dyeing or bleaching should place herself in the hands of a beauty operator who specializes in the work; home ventures are hazardous.

Imperfect electric wires are often the cause of serious damages. Inspect the wiring in your home to see that it is not worn through. Dogs running about are apt to loosen or bite it.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Nov. 19.

The astrological forecast for this day is strong for advancement, fulfillment of high ambitions and all that is worthy, prosperous and progressive in the business and private lives. There is promise of assistance from powerful interests and friendly offices of those in influential positions, although an old matter of some trivial detail might cause concern.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of increase and expansion of the fortunes, with the friendly support of those in place and power. A friendly and co-operative spirit is assured in the fulfillment of important objectives, with happy reactions and benefits manifest in the private life and its affiliations. It is a time for reaching such high goals.

A child born on this day may be efficient and capable, with powers to attain goals in progressive and noble ideals. Its magnaminous and kindly nature may find its fulfillment in the direction of education, religion or philanthropy.

Diary of a Fashion Model

Grace Is Its Motif.

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The trade paper carried an announcement of my new appointment today. And ever since the phone hasn't stopped ringing. People I haven't heard from in years have sent me wires and messages. It is all so bewildering, and all I can do is to make a vow to do the best work that I possibly can to justify Madame's faith in me. Madame gave me the rest of the week off, but I have been at the shop each day, getting ready for next week. Tomorrow I am going over to the factory to talk with the chemist and then I'll know more. I have been reviewing all my friends in the stores throughout the country and I'm satisfied with my survey. I feel sure that I'll be able to put the line over. After all, it is put out under the auspices of one of the best couture houses in America, a house with an international reputation. The line is not meant to invade the popular price field. Its appeal is only to women who can afford to choose the best. The line is as grand as a chinchilla wrap or sable coat or a flawless emerald, for it represents the very finest achievement, the very best. Therefore, its appeal will be limited.

Advertising Plans.

We have worked out some wonderful advertising. Since I was in the office yesterday, Madame called me in to an advertising conference. So everything is in readiness for next week. Friday we take pictures of Consuelo using the creams and things. One of the scenes in Consuelo's new show is placed in her boudoir. As the line is packaged in jet black containers, bottles and jars, I thought that it would be a good thing to have them placed on Consuelo's dressing table, which is near the footlights and at which she sits while she actually makes up. Everyone thought that a good idea and, fortunately, Consuelo agreed, although that will make her almost a demonstrator for us. Madame was delighted with the idea.

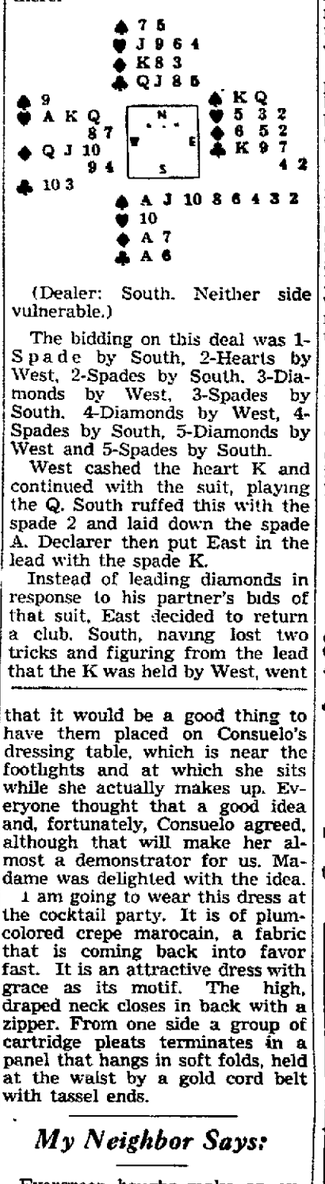
I am going to wear this dress at the cocktail party. It is of plum-colored crepe marocain, a fabric that is coming back into favor fast. It is an attractive dress with grace as its motif. The high, draped neck closes in back with a zipper. From one side a group of cartridge pleats terminates in a panel that hangs in soft folds, held at the waist by a gold cord belt with tassel ends.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

WORTH REPETITION

Nothing connected with bridge is more worthy of repetition than the basic idea that you should not "give up the ship" so long as it is not yet sunk. If your only possible chance to make your contract is to find a particular card right where you want it, play exactly as if you know the card is there.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

The bidding on this deal was 1-Spade by South, 2-Hearts by West, 2-Spades by South, 3-Diamonds by West, 3-Spades by South, 4-Diamonds by West, 4-Spades by South, 5-Diamonds by West and 5-Spades by South.

West cashed the heart K and continued with the suit, playing the Q. South ruffed this with the spade 2 and laid down the spade A. Declarer then put East in the lead with the spade K.

Instead of leading diamonds in response to his partner's bids of that suit, East decided to return a club. South, having lost two tricks and figuring from the lead that the K was held by West, went in with his ace and was set one trick.

In view of the fact that the club was led by East and realizing the contract was doomed in any event if West held the K, South should have ducked the lead.

Party Menus Needed Now

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Now that the social ball is rolling and home entertaining is in progress, most of us yearn for an inspiration that will make refreshments "something special" without straining our budget or our patience.

Refrigerator cakes are very "special." They are well adapted for party refreshments, too, for they can be made the day before and stowed away safely until serving time. So we present some receipts for refrigerator cakes that score high in eye appeal as well as taste appeal. And, best of all, the receipes are failure-proof, an important item when the business girl wants to try her hand at making some party dishes.

Apple Sauce Cake.

Apple sauce refrigerator cake is made by blending one and one-third cups (one can) sweetened condensed milk (s.c.m., for sweet abbreviation's sake, hereafter) and one-quarter cup lemon juice. Fold in two stiffly-beaten egg whites and blend well. Line narrow oblong mold with wax paper that has been buttered. Place eight vanilla wafers at the bottom of dish; cover with layer of milk and lemon mixture. Add two tablespoons lemon juice to two cups apple sauce and place on lemon mixture. Add another layer of vanilla wafers, alternating in this way until lemon and apple sauce are used, finishing with vanilla wafers. Chill in refrigerator for 12 hours or longer. To serve, turn out on small platter, carefully remove wax paper. Cut or slice to serve, and garnish with whipped cream. It will serve eight.

Magic caramel ginger snap is made by beating one can sweetened condensed milk (caramelized) until smooth and creamy. Spread on 24 ginger snaps. Place four ginger snaps on top of each other for individual portion. Cover each portion with caramelized s. c. m. Decorate with candied ginger, cut fine. Chill in refrigerator eight hours or long enough to allow the ginger snaps to become soft. It serves six. To caramelize s.c.m., place one or more unopened cans in a kettle of boiling water and keep at boiling point for three hours. Be sure to keep the cans covered with water.

Cranberry Pie.

Cranberry cream pie — doesn't that just smack of holiday entertaining? Blend together one and one-third cups (one can) s.c.m., one-quarter cup lemon juice, one cup cranberry pulp, drained, and two egg yolks. Pour into nine-inch baked pie shell. Cover with meringue made by beating two egg whites until stiff and adding sugar. Bake in 350 degrees F. oven for 10 minutes or until brown. Chill before serving.

Butternut pie winds up this sweet discourse. Thoroughly blend one and one-third cups (one can) s.c.m., two beaten egg yolks and one cup finely-chopped butternut meats or other nut meats. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) 25 minutes or until set. Cover with meringue made by beating two egg whites until stiff and adding two tablespoons granulated sugar. Return to oven and bake 10 minutes or until meringue is brown.

IF YOU FEEL SUNK
Read this and cheer up

Are you so blue that life is no longer worth living? Do you cry easily? Do you feel low, mean, depressed—just absolutely SUNK?

Then here's good news for you in case you need a good general system tonic—Just take famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Let its wholesome herbs and roots help Nature build up more physical resistance and tone up your system, so that it can more easily throw off the "blues" and give more energy to enjoy life.

MILLIONS of women have depended upon this Compound and have passed the word along to friends and neighbors, and to their children.

Why not take Pinkham's Compound and go "smiling thru"?

CRAWFORD FARM BUREAU HEAD SHOT BY HUNTER

A. J. Shaefer Wounded When Companion Shoots; Foot Shattered by Shot.

BUCYRUS—Crawford county's first hunting accident of the season occurred Thursday when Albert J. Shaefer, president of the Crawford Farm Bureau Co-operative association, suffered gunshot wounds in the left ankle.

The accident occurred while Shaefer was hunting with his farm hand near Lykens, on the Shaefer farm. Shaefer was moving in some brush and his companion fired the shot without seeing his target.

Shaefer was taken to a Tiffin hospital where it was reported amputation of his foot may be necessary. The large artery was severed by the shot.

PLAN SCOUT PROGRAM

BUCYRUS—Scouts and advisors for the "Y's" Men Boy Scout troop, No. 19, are making elaborate plans for a full evening of scout activities next Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A.

Among the features of the program will be the presentation of the Harding area flag by Ray Acker of Marion, the award to be presented for the best attendance at the Harding memorial pilgrimage. The troop will also receive its charter.

Twenty boys will have their first Scout pin placed on them by their mothers as a part of the ceremonies and scout committeemen and Scoutmaster Edward Koch and assistant, George Hecker, will be presented their certificates of office.

The newly appointed scout commissioner, James McFarland, will be the speaker. Demonstrations in scout work will also be offered.

MARKETS OFFER WIDE VARIETY FOR WEEK-END FOOD SHOPPERS

Literally everything from soup to nuts will be assembled in the markets this week-end for the pre-holiday shopper. Those packaged fresh vegetables for soups or stews which were so popular the past few winters are making an appearance again.

In the vegetable field there is little new but there is variety enough to tempt every palate. Greens are still plentiful including spinach, head and leaf lettuce, new cabbage, kale, mustard greens, peppers, parsley and celery, watercress, broccoli and endive. All the root vegetables including red eye and sweet potatoes, turnips, carrots and beets are available, as are all types of beans, mushrooms, artichokes and eggplant.

Rhubarb and pineapple — both fresh—top the list of fruits available tomorrow. There are also plenty of oranges and grapefruit, and seedless, malaga, Hamburg and blue grapes for the fruit trays.

With the holidays nearing, limes, cranberries, apples and tangerines also offer suggestions for many tasty meals. A variety of fresh crop nuts for fruit cakes and other purposes have arrived and fancy baskets are being displayed by many dealers.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

"The Lonely Little Pig and Other Animal Tales" selected by Wilhelmina Harper, is a collection of 3 stories, many of them well-known.

The little white pig who was lonely because the brown pigs wouldn't play with her; the little dog who went traveling; Ginger and Sandy who hissed and mewed at each other, and were really the best of cat friends; and the Hare's birthday party, are just a few of the animal stories in this very attractive book.

Vera Neville's many illustrations, some in color, others in black and white, make this an ideal collection of stories to read aloud to small children.

FEWER TOURISTS

Decrease in Travel Noted in Yellowstone Park Season.

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. —(INS)—A slight decrease in travel through Yellowstone National park was recorded during the past season for the first time in five years. During the 1938 season, figures compiled by Park Superintendent Edmund B. Rogers revealed, a total of 466,185 persons visited the park. In 1937, there were 499,242 visitors to this region.

DEER $25 EACH

Average Hunter Spends That Amount for Hunting Deer.

DENVER—(INS)—Colorado deer hunters paid an average of $25 each for the deer they killed during the season recently ended. Forest rangers at 28 stations in five national forests passed out cards to be filled by hunters upon their return to their homes. These questionnaires covered an itemized cost of the trip, weight of the deer and condition and flavor of the meat. Costs varied considerably but averaged $25.

AUNT JENNY SAYS— FOLKS, TRY THIS WAY TO FIX YOUR THANKSGIVING TURKEY
MAKES IT SO JUICY AND FLAVORFUL AN' THE STUFFIN'S JUST GRAND

Try the SPRY way to make

STUFFING FOR ROAST TURKEY OR CHICKEN

3 quarts soft bread crumbs	2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
2½ teaspoons salt	½ cup Spry, melted
¼ teaspoon pepper	½ cup onion, minced
1 teaspoon sage	¼ cup butter
¼ teaspoon thyme	½ cup boiling water (about)

Combine bread crumbs, salt, pepper, sage, thyme and parsley and mix thoroughly.

Melt Spry in skillet, add onion, and sauté 2 minutes. (Do not brown onion.) Add bread crumbs and sauté until very lightly browned stirring constantly from bottom. (Notice how tasty and tender stuffing is, made this way.)

Melt butter in boiling water and pour over crumbs, tossing lightly with two forks. Add more water if additional moisture is needed. Makes enough stuffing for one 8-pound bird.

After bird has been stuffed and trussed, put it in roasting pan and brush with melted Spry. Then cover lightly with a piece of white cloth which has been brushed thoroughly with melted Spry. Leave cloth on during roasting. Roast in moderate oven (350° F.), allowing 20 to 25 minutes per pound. Try this Spry way and see how juicy your turkey is, how extra-rich and brown your gravy! (All measurements in this recipe are level)

COOK THE EASY SPRY WAY

—see the difference

COOK the Thanksgiving turkey this new Spry way. Your family will talk for days about its deliciousness. Top off the feast with a big luscious pie with tender, flaky Spry crust that melts in your mouth. You'll be famous for life!

Live up to this reputation. Cook the Spry way always! Foods properly fried the Spry way are crisper, tastier, as digestible as if baked.

PREACHES ON LIQUOR PROBLEM

Pastor Gives Sermon on 'Fountain of Tragedy' Tonight.

Rev. Iva Wallick will present an illustrated sermon on "Fountain of Tragedy," dealing with alcoholic education, at the Church of the Foursquare Gospel, 168 South Adams street, at 7:30 p. m. today. Members of W. C. T. U. chapters of Mansfield and Ashland will be guests at the services which will be open to the public.

Brief talks will be given by Mrs. W. C. Neibarger, county president of the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. Grace Rapes, president of the Iota Sigma chapter, and Mrs. John Kramer, president of the Frances Willard chapter.

A reading will be given by Mrs. J. W. Donnan and musical numbers will be presented by a saxophone trio consisting of Gerald Wallick, Karl Eberhardt and Clifford Emerick.

A distinguishing feature of Congregationalism is insistence on the fundamental autonomy of the local church.

HIKER HUNTED

Salesman Finds 'Thumber,' His Valuables Missing.

DANBURY, Conn. —(INS)— Impressed by a hitch-hiker's story that he was on his way from Springfield, Mass., to Pittsburgh to see his "dying mother," James O'Neil, Hartford jewelry salesman, not only gave the man a lift, but bought him a meal and a room at a tourist camp.

When he awoke O'Neil found he was minus his automobile, his topcoat, $2 from his wallet, and a brief case containing jewelry valued at $500. The wallet with $13 in it was left with O'Neil.

A short while after O'Neil reported the case to police, his car was found abandoned in Trumbull with the brief case intact.

Police warned authorities in Connecticut, New York and Pennsylvania to be on the lookout for the man. O'Neil told police he picked the man up in New Haven and was told by the hitch-hiker he lived in Springfield.
